ALLEGED GOGEBIC KIDNAPERS CAUGHT

JUDGE RULES UTILITY LAW IS NOT VALID

HOLDING COMPANY CASE OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1935, by Escanaba Daily Press)

Washington, Nov. 8.—The Congress of the United States has again been formally accused by the Judiciary of violating the Constitution of the United States, this time the decision being rendered in a case involving the Public Utility Holding Company Act but really of transcendent importance to the future of every industry and every business.

David Lawrence.

For Judge Coleman has said that, if Congress can usurp the postal power and regulate the business of the user of the mails on the ground that this is the same thing as regulating the use of the mails, then all businesses could come under federal regulation and there would be an end of state rights.

The opinion of Judge Coleman, in effect, tells the trustees of the Utility company that they may disregard the Utility Act as unconstitutional and need not pay any attention to its provisions, which require registration with the secretary by December 1. Since such advice is given by a federal judge to trustees of a company in receivership, it follows that presidents of other companies, who are trustees for their stockholders, may accept the same advice.

Hardships Caused

The significance of the decision is that it probably will put a damper on the effective enforcement of the Utility law for many months to come. The securities and exchange commission was not a party to the suit and chairman Landis is known to feel that the case did not present a fair test. But trick laws beget trick cases, and, furthermore, the habit which congress is developing of passing invalid laws and forcing the citizen to undergo hardships while the government attorneys delay court tests is not conducive to a passive acquiescence in such statutes by companies or individuals whose property is affected.

If Judge Coleman's opinion is carried to a higher court and sustained, there is nothing congress can do about rewriting the statute. For the Coleman opinion holds congress has no power to use the commerce clause to regulate Holding companies, that it has no power to use the postal clause, that it cannot ignore the fifth amendment, known as the "due process" clause, in order to do by indirection that which it has no direct power to do. It is noteworthy, however, that Judge Coleman did not pass on the question of proper or improper delegation of power to the securities and exchange commission, declaring that this was unnecessary in

In announcing the building program to the board of lay trustees, Rev. O'Hara said the university had already spent $315,000 this year for a new campus infirmary, landscaping and remodeling of buildings.

STATE FOREST TRACTS ADDED IN PENINSULA

TAHQUAMENON PURCHASE COMES UP IN JANUARY

Lansing, Nov. 8 (AP)—The state conservation commission added 50,000 acres of sub-marginal lands to the state forest domain today. The land was turned over by the state resettlement administration, which is moving farm families off tracts unsitable for agriculture and closing such land to farming purposes.

The land will enlarge the Hartwick Pines forest, Au Sable forest, Higgins and Houghton Lakes forests, and the Ogemaw forest.

The commission selected dates for the beaver trapping season. It set April 1 to 15 in the upper peninsula and March 17 to 31 in the lower peninsula. Trapping will be permitted in the upper peninsula save in Ontonagon, Gogebic and Keweenaw counties, and the portion of Houghton county north of the Portage ship canal. In the lower peninsula trapping is restricted to the area north of townline 16 and in Montcalm, Midland and Mecosta counties.

On Escanaba River

The commission allocated $100,000 from anticipated deer hunting license revenues to the purchase to the purchase of deer yards and hunting grounds. Another $2,000 of deer license money was ordered spent for the purchase of 264 acres at the head waters of Backus creek for the Houghton Lake state forest, and 720 acres in the Escanaba river tract vicinity.

The commission accepted a lease on 19 plats of 30 acres each in Lake county along the Pine river from the Consumers Power company, the land to be used for fishing ground and park purposes. The lease can be terminated on six months notice.

The commission sanctioned use of state-owned land at Paw Paw for the establishment of a state police post, estimated to cost $20,000.

The commission received assurance that the congressional reservations commission will consider in January the question of obtaining property around the famous Tahquamenon falls, in the upper peninsula, for state park purposes.

BID ON STATE'S WINE FIZZLES

Liquor Commission Can't Find Man Who Said He'd Give $97,000

Lansing, Nov. 8 (AP)—The state liquor control commission searched in vain today for the $97,000 bid that was submitted for its white elephant stock of light wines, and equally as futilely looked for the man who submitted it.

Chairman John S. McDonald admitted he had no idea what happened to the highest bid submitted for the state's $350,000 worth of light wines that cannot be sold from its store shelves, and that nobody seemed to know who is the "Mr. Michaels" who submitted the bid.

One after another he called his staff members into his office and asked them about the bid and the bidder. The answer was "I don't know."

Asked about the bid today, the chairman confidently summoned the commission's attorney, Walter A. Rice, to answer for him. Mr. Rice couldn't do it.

Michael E. Carpenter, head of the alcohol control division, was no help and neither was Gilbert H. Isbister, commission secretary. They simply didn't know.

Even if Michaels is located and his bid is found, he may not receive the wine after all, McDonald said today . The chairman explained he wants to investigate Michaels before signing a contract with him, and will require proof from the buyer that he represents a reputable firm and will not sell the wine in Michigan.

FIRE FATAL TO NELSON COLE

Body of Bachelor Found In Ruins of Home in Gladstone

Gladstone, Mich., Nov. 9—Nelson Cole, aged 40, unmarried, burned to death in flames which virtually destroyed his unfinished two story house at 817 Montana avenue early this morning. The body, found sprawled out in the corner of a room next to the kitchen, was so badly burned that identification was made only through the remnants of his wearing apparel.

The fire was first noticed by Oscar Ohman, local postal clerk. Ohman saw the flames shooting out from the house and, in his pajamas, tried to wake up neighbors living next door. His frantic efforts were of no avail and Tom Bolger, of the Daily Press, and Hugh Cavill, local dairyman, who had just returned from Escanaba, drove up in their car. Cavill jumped out while Bolger went to notify the fire department. Cavill and Ohman went into the house but failed to find anyone. When the fire department arrived, they used water and chemicals to quench the blaze. Another inspection of the place disclosed Cole's badly charred body in the room where the flames had been most intense.

The room in which the body was found was adjoining the kitchen in which a heater was burning. Officials are of the opinion that the fire probably started from this heater.

Cole was apparently last seen by William Crane, a neighbor. Crane reported visiting Cole between 10 and 11 o'clock and said that Cole had chased him out of the house. He offered no reason for the act.

The deceased man is survived by one brother, George, of this city.

NORRIS TO QUIT SENATE IN 1936

Veteran Solon, 74, Says Borah Won't Run for President

Salt Lake City, Nov. 8 (AP)—Senator George W. Norris, fighting Republican independent, announced today he is retiring from the senate—but friends from Nebraska to Washington voiced belief or hopes he'll run again.

GEORGE W. NORRIS

After 32 years in congress, including 10 years in the house, the 74-year-old Nebraska veteran told the Deseret News:

"I am no candidate. I am getting old. Younger men can and should carry on the work which I have tried to do during my years as senator."

Norris, interviewed in a brief stop here enroute to Compton, Calif., to visit a daughter, did not comment upon his plans after retirement.

He quickly put at rest the suggestion he might have other political ambitions—perhaps the presidency—when he said in referring to talk of Idaho's Senator William E. Borah as a possible Republican nominee:

"I don't think he will be a candidate—any more than I will."

Informed of Norris' announcement, Borah said at Blackfoot, Idaho:

"If I could do it, I would command him, for his country's sake to change his mind."

"Times Is Bad But We's Eatin'," Hunt Is Told In Gloomy Gayville

BY FRAZIER HUNT
(Copyrfight, 1935, NEA Service)

The town of Gayville belies its name. I could discover nothing about it that even in the slightest resembled gaiety. Its few streets of miserable frame houses reflected the melancholy somberness of its gloomy existence. Like many of the properties in this part of Westmoreland County, Pa., its mines were in 'retreat.' They had seen better days.

HUNT

It was a Saturday morning when I walked along a rutted, yellow clay road and stopped in at the grey painted houses, set on stilts high above the level of the grassless lawns. Miner's wives were scrubbing their back porches, and I was touched by their brave effort to sustain self-respect and cleanliness despite grinding poverty.

"My husband only gets about two days' work a week," Mrs. Opsinick told me. 'Things are hard when you have two growing children, but we've never asked for relief. Things are a lot better since the men are organized in a union . . . My husband and I both voted for Roosevelt and we're going to do it again. I guess everybody along here is for Roosevelt."

SPEED NATURALIZATION

Down the street I turned in at the home of Mrs. Poulich. Her boy helped translate the more difficult questions and answers. She and her husband had come from Czecho-Slovakia some years ago. Her husband had taken out his first papers and was hurrying through with his final ones so that he could vote. He would vote for Roosevelt. Yes, there were many foreign-born miners who, although they had lived here many years, had never bothered to become citizens. But they were taking out their papers now. Their union leaders were urging them to do it so that they could vote for Roosevelt next year.

Italians Drive On Toward Lake Tana

BY ANDRUE BERDING
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)
(Copyright 1935, By The Associated Press)

With the Italian Armies at Makale, Ethiopia, Nov. 8—Italy's bold legions took Makale in their martial stride today and pushed on south and west to rake deep into the rugged approaches to Lake Tana—lifeblood of the British Sudan.

Leaving the swaggering traitor, Ras Gugsa, to celebrate the shotless capture of Makale and receive the plaudits of his subjects, advance guards penetrated many miles beyond the medieval Ethiopian city.

The Italian commanders threw out protective outposts to guard against any counter-offensive from the warriors of Haile Selassie.

From three sides the Italians swarmed into Makale today without a fight, planted the tri-color over the old fort and palace and planned immediately their next advance.

It generally was agreed this will be to Amba Alaji, for practical as well as sentimental reasons.

This was the southernmost point of penetration of the Italian invasion of 1895 and 1896 and it was at Amba Alaji that an Italian army of 2,000, most of them natives, was slaughtered by Ethiopians in the last month of 1895 preceding by a short time the crowning defeat of Aduwa.

Omre, Nov. 8 (AP)—Gorrahei, "gateway" to Hara and interior Ethiopia from Italian Somaliland was stormed and taken today by native troops of Italy's southern army.

The fortified post for weeks has been a coveted Italian objective. It commands caravan trails of southeastern Ethiopia and dominates the water supply of the region.

Its capture was Italy's second major triumph of the day. The northern army occupied Makale without the firing of a shot, an official communique disclosed.

Native troops, led by Col. Maretti, stormed Gorrahei, said a dispatch to the Associated Press from Asmara and an official announcement here confirmed its capture.

The Asmara advices said the seizure thrust Ethiopian defenses 50 miles back into the southern Ethiopian wilderness.

BY JOHN EVANS

Rome, Nov. 8 (AP)—A reliable source disclosed tonight the Fascist high command had ordered anti-foreign demonstrations halted, and said the order reflected progress in peace negotiations between Italy and Great Britain and France.

The desire of Fascist leaders for more restraint in the matter of reprisals against "sanctionist" countries had became apparent since the latest of a series of student demonstrations against foreign shops, in Naples last night.

At the same time Fascism's iron rule of squelching "defeatists" who try to profit by war and sanctions was rigidly enforced today.

Scores of stores were closed throughout Italy for over-charging. Frightened persons trying to get their money out of the country have been arrested and "black bourse" money speculators who sell the lira at a heavy discount for foreign money have been jailed.

Fascist vigilance committees are active at Rome, Bari, Lucca, Treviso, Pontedera and elsewhere. Forty stores were closed at Pontedera alone, one at Lucca, another at Treviso and 36 merchants were punished in various ways at Bari.

CANADIAN TRADE DICKERS OPENED

Prime Minister Calling on Roosevelt, Hopes for Success

BY STANLEY P. RICHARDSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP)—Opening a round of significant conversations with Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King of Canada, President Roosevelt late today voiced hope that the protracted trade negotiations with the dominion would blossom quickly into an agreement.

The chief executive's assertion at his press conference that there had been progress in the negotiations lent weight to expectations that MacKenzie King's visit here was concerned primarily with a commercial approachment. The prime minister yesterday insisted he was merely on vacation here.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke just before joining the stock dominion chief at tea in the White House proper. The Canadian was a dinner and overnight guest of the Roosevelts, also.

Although Mr. Roosevelt said that it was not yet time for an announcement, he expressed the hope that the negotiations—in progress since last January—would result in a trade agrement soon.

His comment marked an opening day of activity by MacKenzie King who conferred with Secretary Hull before going to the White House.

Hull contributed to the general air of optimism over prospects for an eventual treaty by asserting that both governments recognized the desirability of concluding a pact as expeditiously as possible.

Mr. Roosevelt said he would like to see the projected agreement include as many articles as possible so that it would cover the broadest possible field. The purpose of an agreement, he said, would be to increase trade between the two countries and that naturally the more commodities affected the broader would be the increase.

Negro Is Killed In Prison Fight

Jackson, Mich., Nov. 8. (AP)—George Dudley, 36, was killed and Walter Johnson, 35, seriously wounded in a fight at the binder twine plant at Michigan state prison today. Both are negro inmates.

Prison officials said Dudley drew a knife and made several slashes at Johnson, the latter retaliating by hitting Dudley with an iron bar. When Dudley dropped the knife, Johnson recovered it and slashed Dudley so severely that he died almost instantly.

ARREST MADE AT WETMORE; MEN CONFESS

POLICE HANDCUFFED IN HIS OWN CAR AFTER ROBBERY

Munising, Mich., Nov. 8 (AP)—Sought since Tuesday when they are alleged to have robbed a store and later kidnaped Clarence Ethier, deputy sheriff of Gogebic county, Francis and Eugene La Pine, brothers, were arrested at Wetmore, near here, tonight by state police and Alger county officers. They are held without charge.

Acting on a tip from State police in Marquette, Sheriff Louis Pelletier, Deputy Ryan and Trooper Wilbur Peterman, went to Wetmore to search a South Shore freight train on which the suspects were reported to be riding. Shortly after their arrest, the La Pines confessed, according to officers.

The LaPines were brought to the Alger county jail, and will be taken to Marquette tomorrow, and later removed to Bessemer.

Discharged by CCC

Francis LaPine is said to be a member of the CCC camp near Manistique. His brother was discharged from the Big Bay camp about a year ago because of misconduct. Both served terms in the Boys' Industrial School in Lansing. For a time they lived in Marquette, but were born in Calumet. Their parents are dead.

Ethier was pushed into his own car by two men he sought to question regarding a store robbery at Ramsey, and was driven away. The automobile soon ran out of gasoline and Ethier's abductors beat and handcuffed him. They started walking down a railway track.

Zenge Sentenced To Life In Prison For Killing Rival

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP)—In smiling silence, Mandeville W. Zenge heard himself sentenced to life imprisonment today for the mutilation murder of his rival in love, Dr. Walter J. Bauer.

Criminal Court Judge Cornelius Harrington imposed the sentence on the 26 year old former Canton, Mo., carpenter after defense counsel withdrew a motion for a new trial.

Attorney Joseph E. Green said that in abandoning efforts to free Zenge he was "acceding to the wishes of the Zenge family as expressed by J. Andy Zenge, father of Mandeville."

Zenge was convicted Oct. 18 of slaying Dr. Bauer, professor of chemistry at a Kirksville, Mo., College of Osteopathy, who had married Zenge's school day sweetheart, Louis Shaffer. The state charged he was motivated by jealousy and revenge.

He must serve 20 years in Joliet penitentiary before becoming eligible for parole.

Trousers Ripped; Court Adjourns; Juror Is Docked

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Nov. 8. (AP)—A pair of trousers halted the progress of a murder trial in circuit court here today.

A portly member of the jury trying Russell Regan and Harold Moon for the death of Bonner Upshaw stooped to retrieve an object he dropped. The strain on the trousers was too much.

The juror hastened to report his discomfiture to the bailiff, the bailiff relayed the message to Judge Neil E. Reid. The court signed an order on the county treasurer for $5, the juror took the money and a half hour later returned with a new pair of pants. The county will get the $5 back by "docking" the juror's pay.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 8. (AP)—The ore freighter Joseph H. Frantz, which arrived here last night after being released from the rocks in upper St. Mary's river, where it had been aground for 36 hours, was due to clear here Saturday morning for Ashtabula, Ohio.

Diver Tom Fleacheur, of River Rouge, stationed here, completed patching a hole in the shape of a boomerang on the C plate, second from the keel on the port side this afternoon. The hole was six feet long and four inches wide.

Several smaller holes were plugged with wedges.

Resignation of Prison Commissioner Given to Fitzgerald

Lansing, Nov. 8 (AP)—Harry H. Bennett, personal manager for the Ford Motor company, sent his resignation as a member of the state prison commission to Governor Fitzgerald today, coupling it with a criticism of the secrecy policies the commission has adopted.

The governor did not accept the resignation immediately, but wrote to Bennett agreeing with at least some of his sentiments against commission secrecy.

The commissioner's letter said he wanted to give up the position because the custom of meeting on Saturdays was inconvenient to him, and because he did not approve of the policy under which newspaper reporters are excluded from commission sessions.

The governor wrote to Bennett deploring his decision, and adding:

"I do not like to dictate to any commission as to how it is to function, but I quite agree with you that it is a good policy to have all meetings open to the press. I follow that policy in this office."

Dr. William T. Shaw, chairman of the commission, said he has no intention of opening the meetings. "I feel," he explained, "that the commission discusses matters which are not of immediate interest to the public."

Shaw said Bennett has not attended meetings regularly, and had not discussed his plan to resign.

RALLY PLANNED BY DEMOCRATS

Pep Meetings To Be Held in Escanaba and Other Peninsula Cities

Lansing, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Democratic party turned its attention to the upper peninsula today and planned a series of political meetings there designed to revitalize county organizations.

Don W. Canfield, executive secretary of the Democratic state central committee, and Speaker George A. Schroeder of the house of representatives will open a speaking tour of the northern counties November 12 with a rally in Marquette. Other cities at which they will conduct meetings are Escanaba, Menominee, Iron Mountain, Iron River, Sault Ste. Marie and Houghton.

Canfield said the party plans to build active local organizations that will consolidate strength for the 1936 state and national campaign. He will confer with state central committee members in the various districts through which the route takes him.

Suspended School Principal Admits Killing 'Whisperer'

Troy, N. Y., Nov. 8 (AP)—A 60-year-old suspended school principal tonight confessed, District Attorney Charles J. Ranney said, to slaying William F. Seber, 48, bank president and Troy board of education head, today in the belief Seber had started a whispering campaign against his character.

The school official, John E. Healey, Jr., was arraigned immediately on a first degree murder charge and held without bail for action of the grand jury.

Ranney declined to reveal details of the confession, but Acting Sergeant James Spain of the Troy police quoted Healey as saying after the shooting, "he (Seber) had been calling me vile names. These secret campaigns don't go with me."

William A. Dunne, secretary of the board of education, said Healey had resigned the principalship a few minutes before the shooting. He had held the job for 32 years.

Healey had been suspended November 4, Dunne said, pending formal presentation of charges as yet held secret.

Seber died in a hospital 20 minutes after his body, a bullet in the abdomen, was picked up from the floor near his desk in the Manufacturers' National Bank in downtown Troy.

Battle Creek Tries To Save Stove Firm

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 8 (AP)—The Battle Creek Chamber of Commerce adopted a resolution today to name a committee to contact officials of the A-B Stove company and urge them to abandon their announced intention to liquidate the concern as the result of a strike of 250 employes.

The officials announced yesterday they would liquidate the firm's assets rather than attempt to operate with unskilled workers, and that they would not recognize a union organization of the striking workers.

The Chamber of Commerce stated it was interested in the situation only because it would mean the loss of an industry to the city.

Detroit, Nov. 8. (AP)—Abner E. Larned, state director of the national emergency council, took the leadership today in a movement to crystalize sentiment in favor of a $30,000,000 bridge across the Straits of Mackinac.

In 1933, the state legislature created a bridge authority to investigate the feasibility of the project.

The authority made a tentative survey, and applied to the Public Works administration for a 45 per cent grant, proposing that the state issue self-liquidating bonds to cover the remainder of the cost. The application and bond issue proposal have been gathering dust since then.

Sanctions Needed

At a meeting called by Larned today, in the office of Dean Mortimer E. Cooley, state PWA engineer, Larned declared that the project is the "greatest of its kind over conceived in Michigan."

Another meeting was called, to be held November 20 in Lansing, to which representatives of tourist and development associations will be invited. An appeal will be made at that meeting for a concerted effort to obtain the efderal and state sanctions needed to carry the project through.

Commissioner Present

At today's meeting were: Harvey J. Campbell, secretary of the Detroit board of commerce; Charles E. Boyd, secretary of the Retail Merchants association; Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner; G. Donald Kennedy, business manager of the state highway department; J. H. Cissel, state bridge engineer, and J. Lee Barrett, executive vice president of the Detroit convention and tourist bureau.

Cissel pronounced the bridge feasible from an engineer's standpoint and Dean Cooley corroborated his opinion.

CUBAN ASSASSIN PLOT REVEALED

American Ambassador Marked for Death, Says Report

BY EDMUND A. CHESTER
(Copyright 1935, By The Associated Press)

Havana, Nov. 8. — An unimpeachable source disclosed tonight that a "master plot" to assassinate Jefferson Caffery, United States ambassador to Cuba, had been thwarted by intelligence operatives of the Cuban army on the even of its execution.

Reliable sources said army officials were convinced the plot was nipped with the recent arrest of Cesar Vilar, leader of the confederation of labor.

Also scheduled for death, army agents said they learned, was Pepin Rivero, director of a newspaper.

Twenty nine men, these sources said, had been sworn to kill Caffery, who was to be the first to go.

The plot was set for Nov. 1, the day after Vilar's arrest, it was asserted. Six automobiles were ready to carry the assassins to a point already designated, agents disclosed.

Army officers expressed belief the plot was inspired by radicals to provoke American intervention in Cuba, in the hope of thus starting a revolution. The plan for the attempt had been rehearsed to the most minute detail, they said.

Vilar, who is wanted on a number of charges, was arrested Oct. 31 with several associates. A majority of the 29 suspects are still at large.

Caffery has been the target of assassins before. His home on the outskirts of the city shows bullet scars where assailants fired. A soldier guard at the residence was killed when attackers opened fire on it in daylight.

Negro's Lynchers Held For Murder

Ashland City, Tenn., Nov. 8 (AP)—Five men held in connection with the lynching of Baxter Bell, 45, a negro, last Monday were indicted on first degree murder charges today by the Cheatham county grand jury.

Circuit Judge Wirt Courtney announced trial would start Thursday.

Those indicted are listed as Luther Dotson, Clyde Dotson, Jimmy Dotson and Jesse Dotson, all brothers, and Allie Brown, a cousin.

Bell was under arrest, charged with having insulted and slapped Mrs. Luther Dotson, wife of one of the men indicted.

Freak Storm Dies Down To A Breeze

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 8 (AP)—A freak tropical disturbance which cut a path of death during a week of erratic wandering died down today to hardly more than a zephyr.

A terse mid-afternoon weather advisory said the unprecedented post-season storm, which was reported to have caused 19 deaths and estimated property damage of more than $3,000,000 in southern Florida and the Bahamas, apparently was fading out in the eastern Gulf of Mexico.

Belated reports reaching Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, said John Eldridge Russell, British commissioner, and 10 others were drowned Sunday.

Bernie Bats .500 As Horse Picker

Baltimore, Nov. 8 (AP)—Ben Bernie, the cigar smoking orchestra leader who is here on his honeymoon, batted .500 today as a "hunch picker" of race horses.

His hunch led him to Lovely Girl in the sixth. She won to pay $4.60 for $2.

But, in the eighth his hunch turned towards Singing Heart. Singing Heart ran fifth.

Vault Is Robbed; Manager Locked In

Detroit, Nov. 8 (AP)—Two robbers entered an office in the Detroit Savings Bank building in downtown Detroit today, robbed the vault of the Eureka Life Insurance Co. of between $500 and $700 and fled after locking the office manager, John F. Keen, in the vault.

Keen was not found until a half hour later, when his secretary heard his cries.

Sixteenth Baby Arrives: Mother Works As Usual

Woodriver, Ill., Nov. 8 (AP)—Proudly, Mrs. Cleveland Pate told tonight how she went through her usual routine of work from 3:30 a. m. to 7 p. m. before giving birth to her sixteenth child this morning.

The spartan mother related she arose before daybreak and served breakfast for her husband, a steamfitter's helper, and 25 boarders. Then she prepared and boxed 100 lunches and delivered them to a high school and a shoe factory near her home.

In the afternoon, she helped a son, Chris, at his soft drink parlor, then returned home and with a daughter, Ruby, prepared dinner for her husband and the boarders.

She retired at 7 p. m. and five and a half hours later gave birth to a 10½ pound boy. The new baby will be named Cleveland Thomas Pate, Jr.

"Forty-niners," on their way to California's gold fields, had to pay 12½ cents for horseshoe nails.

CORN HUSKERS BREAK RECORD

Elmer Carlson of Iowa Wins Annual Battle of Bangboards

Newtown, Ind., Nov. 8. (AP)—Elmer Carlson of Audubon, Ia.,—out where the tall corn grows—today won the twelfth annual national corn husking contest near here by turning in a world record breaking 41.52 bushels of yellow Indiana corn.

The twenty-six year old, 178 pound Iowan captured the championship in his first try at national honors. To him went a $100 cash prize and the applause of 100,000 persons who tramped fences and tore down cornstalks in an effort to see the nation's eighteen best huskers compete at the Leslie K. Mitchell farm.

To Carlson it was just a warm-up for real work to come. He will return to the home of his father in Iowa tomorrow to husk 150 acres of corn which awaits his championship hands.

The winner turned in a total weight of 2,995 pounds from which was deducted a total of 88.43 pounds for gleanings and husks left behind or thrown into his wagon.

The previous record for corn husking was 36.9 bushels, established in 1932 by Carl Seiler of Oneida, Ill., at Galva, Ill.

The record was broken by several of the huskers participating in today's contest. Irwin Bauman of Woodford county, Illinois, was second to the new champion with 39.06 bushels husked in one hour and twenty minute contest. Lawrence Pitzer of Newtown, Indiana's champion, was third with 38.84 bushels; William Rose of Henry county, Illinois, fourth with 38.12 bushels, and E. H. Hendricks of Grundy county, Iowa, fifth with 37.50.

Ted Balko, Minnesota, who won the national title a year ago, finished in sixth place with 36.84 bushels. Other money prizes were $50 for second, $25 for third, $15 for fourth and $10 for fifth.

Royal Honeymooners Visiting In Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP)—On a royal honeymoon, Prince Juan de Bourbon, youngest son of the former King of Spain, and his bride, the former Princess Maria Mercedes de Bourbon-Siciles, arrived here from Detroit tonight for a visit of three days. They were expected to leave Sunday for Jasper National Park at Winnipeg, Canada. The Prince is 22.

Dean "Kidnaped" By Fair Co-eds; Says He Liked It

Chickasha, Okla., Nov. 8 (AP)—The middle aged dean of the Oklahoma college for women, "kidnaped" early today by four pretty girls wrangling for a holiday, dismissed the incident tonight as "a thrilling experience."

Thanks to the neat little abduction and the good nature of Dean Howard Taylor, classes went begging at the Oklahoma college for women—and the freshmen and sophomores gaily went about their annual inter-class contests.

The feminine quartet—Maxine Hunter, Margaret Nance, Kathryn Knisely and Mary Gaylord—called at the dean's home before time for books. Gently they fibbed that he was needed at a special meeting of freshmen, directed him to "sit in the middle, please" of the tonneau of their car, and struck out for the country.

Handed a formal paper saying among other things, "I hereby declare a holiday today," the dean refused to sign. Out came the rope for his wrists, and a handkerchief or so to gag the counselor.

"They never did quite get me gagged," Dean Taylor smiled when it was all over "they realized a dean must talk. And I'm afraid I had to help a bit with the knot when they tried to rope my wrists."

The Malays value the ear-drops of the dugong, or seacow, as love potions. They believe that a man carrying a vial of dugong tears can win the love of any beautiful woman.

TICKET FRAMED BY THIRD PARTY

Farmers Holiday Group to Enter Campaign in Nine States

New York, Nov. 8. (AP)—A third party ticket is "definitely" to be submitted to the voters in some eight or nine states in 1936, John Bosch of Minneapolis, vice president of the Farmers Holiday association, said here tonight.

Bosch, closely associated with Governor Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota, prominent among third party leaders, declared a farm political revolt from the old parties was rapidly taking form in Wisconsin, Minnesota, parts of Iowa, North and South Dakota, Colorado, Montana, Washington, and to some extent California.

"There definitely will be a third party formed in 1936 with a national program," Bosch said. "Whether we will have a national ticket is still an open question. It is still a question of strategy whether a third party would enter the presidential campaign or whether it would concentrate on congressional and senatorial candidates."

A national ticket in the forthcoming campaign, Bosch intimated, would serve the chief purpose of registering opposition to the major parties. Whether such a ticket could command candidates sufficiently strong to draw the vote was considered problematical.

Sure! Hail Hitler Binds Nazi Couple

Berlin (AP) — "Yes, sure! Hail Hitler" replaced "I do!" in the first marriage ceremony of a new sect, the German People's Church.

"Are you ready to take this woman as wife and live with her in marriage according to German custom's?" the bridegroom was asked.

He gave the Hitler salute and cried, "Jawohl! Heil Hitler!"

The bride answered in the same way the question: "Are you ready to stand at the side of this man in the hard struggle in behalf of the German fatherland"

Arthur Dinter, founder of the movement, performed the ceremony. On the rostrum were swastika flags and Dinter's version of the Bible, which has been "cleansed of all Jewish objections."

Postmaster General Farley, who is also patronage chief for the Democrats, stepped into his long limousine followed by a friend. As he seated himself, he bent over silently, picked up a folded piece of paper and tossed it out the window.

"Looks like a note," said the puzzled friend.

"It was," grinned Farley, "from the most persistent job-seeker I know. He throws them in here every day. Not that it bothers me, but sometimes I wonder if I'll wake up and find him in bed with me."

The bureau of air commerce had a new way of saying it in the official report on the airplane accident at Cheyenne, Wyo., October 7. The report said in part: "An airplane, piloted by licensed airmen, carrying passengers, mail and express, unexpectedly contacted the ground."

Carpenters in the basement of the White House tipped their caps as Mrs. Roosevelt picked her way through repair operations.

She seemed to be looking for something. Finally she asked a busy cook, "Where do you sit down when you're not working?"

"Why—why—no place, much," stammered the surprised cook.

So the White House repairs will include chairs for the kitchen crew: Mrs. Roosevelt's orders.

Two capricious Alaskan dogs have helped the national deficit to the extent of $4.76.

They were caught by a bureau of fisheries warden as they merrily scooped salmon from the Situk river. They had 27 fish flopping around on the shore, but evidently were fishing just for fun, because they kept right on.

The dogs were tried on two counts: fishing out of salmon season, and withdrawing more fish from the water than was necessary for food. They were sentenced to exile from the river region during salmon season, and their catch was sold for $4.76 which was turned in to the United States treasury.

Senator Borah of Idaho arrived at his office early but he seemed preoccupied, and the work didn't fly as fast as usual. Suddenly he left. In an hour he returned quite jovial, and the work flew.

His staff uncovered the story. Borah had been out for his usual crack-of-dawn canter on his faithful horse. During the ride the horse had shied at a flying leaf. Borah applied the whip.

When the two returned to the stables the horse was piqued and refused the usual lump of sugar. When Borah returned later, on his absence from the office, the horse relented, took the sugar and nosed affectionately around the senator's ears.

Don't Take Chances On Slippery Streets

A light fall of wet snow made streets slippery at Escanaba Friday, and police officers are cautioning motorists to cut down their driving speeds as a safety measure. Pavements are covered with a thin sheet of ice, and drivers who do not keep their cars under control are likely to find themselves skidding into an accident.

The Beach Project

A THING about as badly needed as the second tail on a cat is WPA approval given to the construction of an attendant's cabin at Escanaba's gold inlaid municipal airport.

Other highly worthwhile projects, of decided potential value, are still awaiting approval at Washington. Included in that list is the Ludington park bathing beach and yacht harbor, to which city officials, local WPA officials, peninsula WPA officials and state WPA officials, have attached their O K mark. Other important projects included water, gas and sewer expensions and pavement construction, none of which has progressed further than local and state approval.

A lot of Escanaba officials would like to forget, for the time being at least, the municipal airport and here Washington WPA comes along and drops it in their laps, to again focus public attention on a matter that a lot of people would like to banish from their minds.

Escanaba's public is interested primarily in the fixing of a date when the long discussed and badly needed Ludington park improvement is to be started. Washington remains decidedly silent on the thing in which Escanaba is most interested.

Home Cooking Declines

TWO sharply diverging news stories came out of one Michigan city on Thursday.

Executive heads of the W. W. Kellogg cereal plants, at Battle Creek, announced wage increases of twelve and half per cent for all male employes and the establishment of a six hour day for all company employes. On the same day in the same city the A-B Stove Company, described as the fifth largest manufacturing industry in Battle Creek, announced that the company will liquidate its business and permanently suspend manufacturing operations, because of a month old strike, called by its 250 employes.

All of which may merely go to prove that a lot of people eat breakfast cereals, making their manufacture a profitable industry, while the number of people who use just ordinary stoves, is declining and those engaged in that industry see the end of their business, making profitless any effort to settle an ill-advised strike.

Another Setback

GOVERNMENT competition with private business received another setback down in Detroit on Thursday. The city council adopted a resolution requesting the Federal Housing Administration to drop its project for slum clearance in that city, looking to the construction of a $4,500,000 white collar, low rent housing institution. After extensive hearings the council decided that the project would operate as an injustice to private apartment house owners in a city that was decidedly "overbuilt" in the late boom days.

Throughout Michigan and many states of the central west there are thousands of Detroit real estate bond holders, who are now fighting for a chance to insure the return of at least some portion of their investment. A federal housing project that would take patronage away from properties in which so many people are interested financially, particularly in a city where house and apartment rentals have been forced to abnormally low levels, would be highly unfair.

Tinker Given Promotion

FRIENDS of E. W. Tinker, forester in charge of the North Central Region, including the Upper Peninsula, since 1929, will view with much satisfaction his promotion to the position of assistant chief forester of the U. S. Forest Service, with headquarters in Washington.

It was under Mr. Tinker's supervision that the Hiawatha, Marquette and Ottawa National Forests were established in the Upper Peninsula. He has devoted much of his time to the huge task of reclaiming the hundreds of thousands of idle acres in this region, and has worked out a long-range plan for eventually putting these lands on a productive basis so that they may again provide a livelihood for many people. Whether such developments will come to pass, however, will depend upon a continuance of adequate appropriations by the government for carrying on this program.

Mr. Tinker had a practical knowledge of the difficult problems of the lumbermen, and was to a large extent responsible for the spirit of cooperation that has existed in this region between the U. S. Forest Service and the lumbering industry. Those who have observed Mr. Tinker's work in this region have long felt that he was destined to rise to higher positions in his profession.

Aid To Industry

NEWS of the establishment of complete facilities for all types of experimental work in paper making and wood pulp utilization at the University of Michigan should be of interest to the Upper Peninsula.

The new research center, which is the joint gift to the university of paper products manufacturers, is similar to the Institute of Paper Research, which has been established at Lawrence university at Appleton, and which has contributed considerable already to the development of the industry in Wisconsin.

The Upper Peninsula, with its pulpwood forests and pulp and paper mills at Groos, Manistique, Munising and Ontonagon, should be interested in the research project, which will be operated with the aim of providing manufacturers with technical advice in developing improved types of paper and related products. When one considers what remarkable progress is being made by scientists in the utilization of yellow pine in the South for the manufacture of newsprint paper it is fair to expect the Michigan industry will receive some very tangible benefits from the Ann Arbor institution.

No Third Party

FATHER COUGHLIN'S broadcast assertion that his National Union of Social Justice will not foster a third-party movement next year seems to make it certain that the coming presidential race will be a straightaway two-party fight once more, as in the past.

There evidently is something about the American climate which is fatal to third parties. The elder Roosevelt and the elder La Follette both tried the third-party game, but in each case the effort to found a strong new party collapsed.

A reform movement in American politics succeeds best by working through one or the other, or both, of the two existing parties. Detroit's militant priest is shaping his strategy according to one of the soundest traditions of American politics.

ABOUT HALF AND HALF

(Chicago Journal of Commerce)

GLANCING over the summaries of Tuesday's elections, one finds that in about half of the states in which there were some sort of polls the Republican Party came out on top. Inasmuch as the states which changed were solidly in the Democratic column in 1932 and 1934, the indication is that the voters cast their ballots rather in negation of the New Deal policies than for the opposing party.

In New York state, Mr. Roosevelt's own bailiwick, nine Democrat-New Deal members lost their seats in the legislature. The Democratic candidate for mayor of Philadelphia, in normally Republican Pennsylvania, lost to his opponent in a Republican governor, Republican control close race. In New Jersey, which has a is assured in the lower house of the legislature and retained in the upper. Cleveland elected a Republican mayor to replace a Republican mayor, who had formerly been governor of Ohio. Worcester, Springfield and Lowell, Massachusetts, followed up the earlier state trend by choosing Republican mayors. In Detroit, Mr. Frank Couzens, son of Republican Senator Couzens, was returned to the mayor's office in the city hall.

In the other column—or columns—Kentucky went wild in a vote on the wet-and-dry issue; the Socialists elected a mayor and won all sixteen aldermanic seats in Bridgeport, Connecticut, while Democratic mayors were returned in Hartford and New Haven. In both Virginia and Mississippi, normally and logically in the "solid south," Democratic nominees were all returned.

It is of course too early to say that these votes, any more than others in recent months, mean a turn of the public away from the New Deal in 1936. Too much time intervenes and there is too much money in the New Deal war-chest, which may be turned to account.

As far as this New Deal money is concerned, our readers will be interested to note that in the Ohio elections voters rejected the majority of bond issues which were to be supplemented by federal grants. A survey discloses that less than 20 per cent of approximately $40,000,000 of such issues were approved in the state. All nine bond propositions in Toledo, totaling approximately $1,680,000, went down in defeat before majorities ranging as high as three to one.

The trend is interesting in the certain fact that an opposition, albeit party, is arising to dispute the formerly overwhelming figures of the New Deal majorities. One only asks now what the Republican victors propose as a substitute for New Dealism. Thus far that party has been decidedly quiet as to what it will propose or do in the months ahead—so that the Republican victors, lathough winning clearly, remain question-marks on the horizon.

ENGEL AND THE GOVERNOR

(Iron Mountain News)

THE Democrats are viewing with considerable pleasure the attack on Frank McKay by Congressman Engel the target of which seems to be less McKay than the governor. In his latest instalment Engel taxes McKay with responsibility for somewhat odorous convention maneuvers during the past few years, and calls on the governor to provide money for an inquiry by the legislative council. The governor rejoins that what he wants from Engel on the subject is facts, not vague insinuations.

The controversy will likely die out in a sputter. Engel, presumably, has no facts, or he would cite them ,and the governor is not likely to move to give the legislative council money with which to start on a fishing expedition. The dispute will, however, do the governor and the party, Engel for that matter, no good. If it sputtered out tomorrow there would still be a record that the Democrats will find useful, during the next campaign, in raising a cloud of suspicion.

Your Nation's Affairs

One of our readers dislikes to see money sent out of the country and has said so in a letter. He and probably others feel that in some way we lose by it. There is a fairly general belief that spending it here would be better.

Let's see what actually happens. An Italian, let us say, comes to the United States. He saves money, perhaps one hundred dollars. Instead of spending it here for a suit of clothes or a radio, he sends it home to his father who spends it. Spent in America it would stimulate our industry. Spent in Italy it helps Italian business instead or so the argument goes.

This is really not so simple as it seems. If we trace carefully what occurs, another effect appears. How does the immigrant send or take the money abroad? There are many ways but all or nearly all have the same effect. Let us suppose that he goes to a bank and buys a draft for $100 and mails it to his father in Naples.

When the father receives the draft he has an order on a New York bank for $100. He cannot spend this in his local stores for food and clothing but must in some way sell it to a bank in Naples in exchange for lire, the Italian money. The lire he can and does spend.

The Naples bank now has a claim on a New York bank. Thus far nothing seems to have happened except that $100 which might have been spent for a radio in New York is spent for something, perhaps for a radio, in Naples.

But what does the Italian bank do? Its customers include among others, importers of goods from the United States. One of these importers has bought or wishes to buy something in the United States, let us say cotton or perhaps radios. He must in some way be able to "send dollars" to America since the exporter here will not want him to send lire, the Italian money.

Fortunately the Italian banker has received the draft on New York which we have described and probably many others like it. The Italian importer accordingly finds it easy to secure "dollars," that is, a draft on New York to pay for what he has bought there—perhaps a shipment of radios. The money our Italian neighbor sent to his father has made it possible for someone in Italy to pay for a purchase in America.

Let us put it in another way. We have imported the services of an Italian immigrant and as a result we export more of something to Italy. Perhaps there are reasons why we may not want so many immigrants. If so, that question should be argued on its merits. It is a mistake, however, to suppose that these immigrants cause us a loss by sending money home instead of spending it here. What difference does it make to our radio manufacturers whether they sell a radio to an Italian here or an Italian in Italy.

There are, of course, other uses to which "exported money" could be put. One is to pay at least a part of what the Italians owe us on some past account. For example, the Government of Italy owes the Government of the United States a very large sum as war debt.

"Sending money out of the country" in this way merely makes it more possible for other people to pay what they owe—on old accounts or for new purchases.

(Address questions to the author, care of this newspaper.)

There has been much speculation as to the behind-the-curtain activities of McKay. The governor admits their friendship, and it is a matter of common knowledge that McKay supported him and helped shape up his campaign in 1934. It is not seriously to be doubted that McKay has been consulted with regard to appointments, and it is to be presumed that men he has favored have obtained recognition. But this is nothing out of the ordinary in politics.

There is no case against McKay unless it can be shown that he has used his influence with the governor to profit himself to the disadvantage of the state. If he has done this industrious sleuthing by Mr. Engel that would turn up a few facts in support of his charges would be much more to the point than the current newspaper controversy.

$24 A MINUTE

(Idaho Statesman, Boise)

HARDLY noticeable in a recent issue of the Statesman was a brief two sentence quotation from a Minnesota publication. The facts set forth would warrant repeating a thousand fold. They were:

"If you like to be staggered here are some figures that should do the trick for you. If you were to get $24 a minute it would take you 2,000 years to earn the money the government has spent in the last three years."

No other comment is necessary.

RESOURCEFUL

(The Toronto Globe)

A CANDIDATE for the police force was being verbally examined. "If you were by yourself in a police car and were pursued by a desperate gang of criminals in another car doing 40 miles an hour along a lonely road, what would you do?" The candidate looked puzzled for a moment. Then he replied: "Fifty."

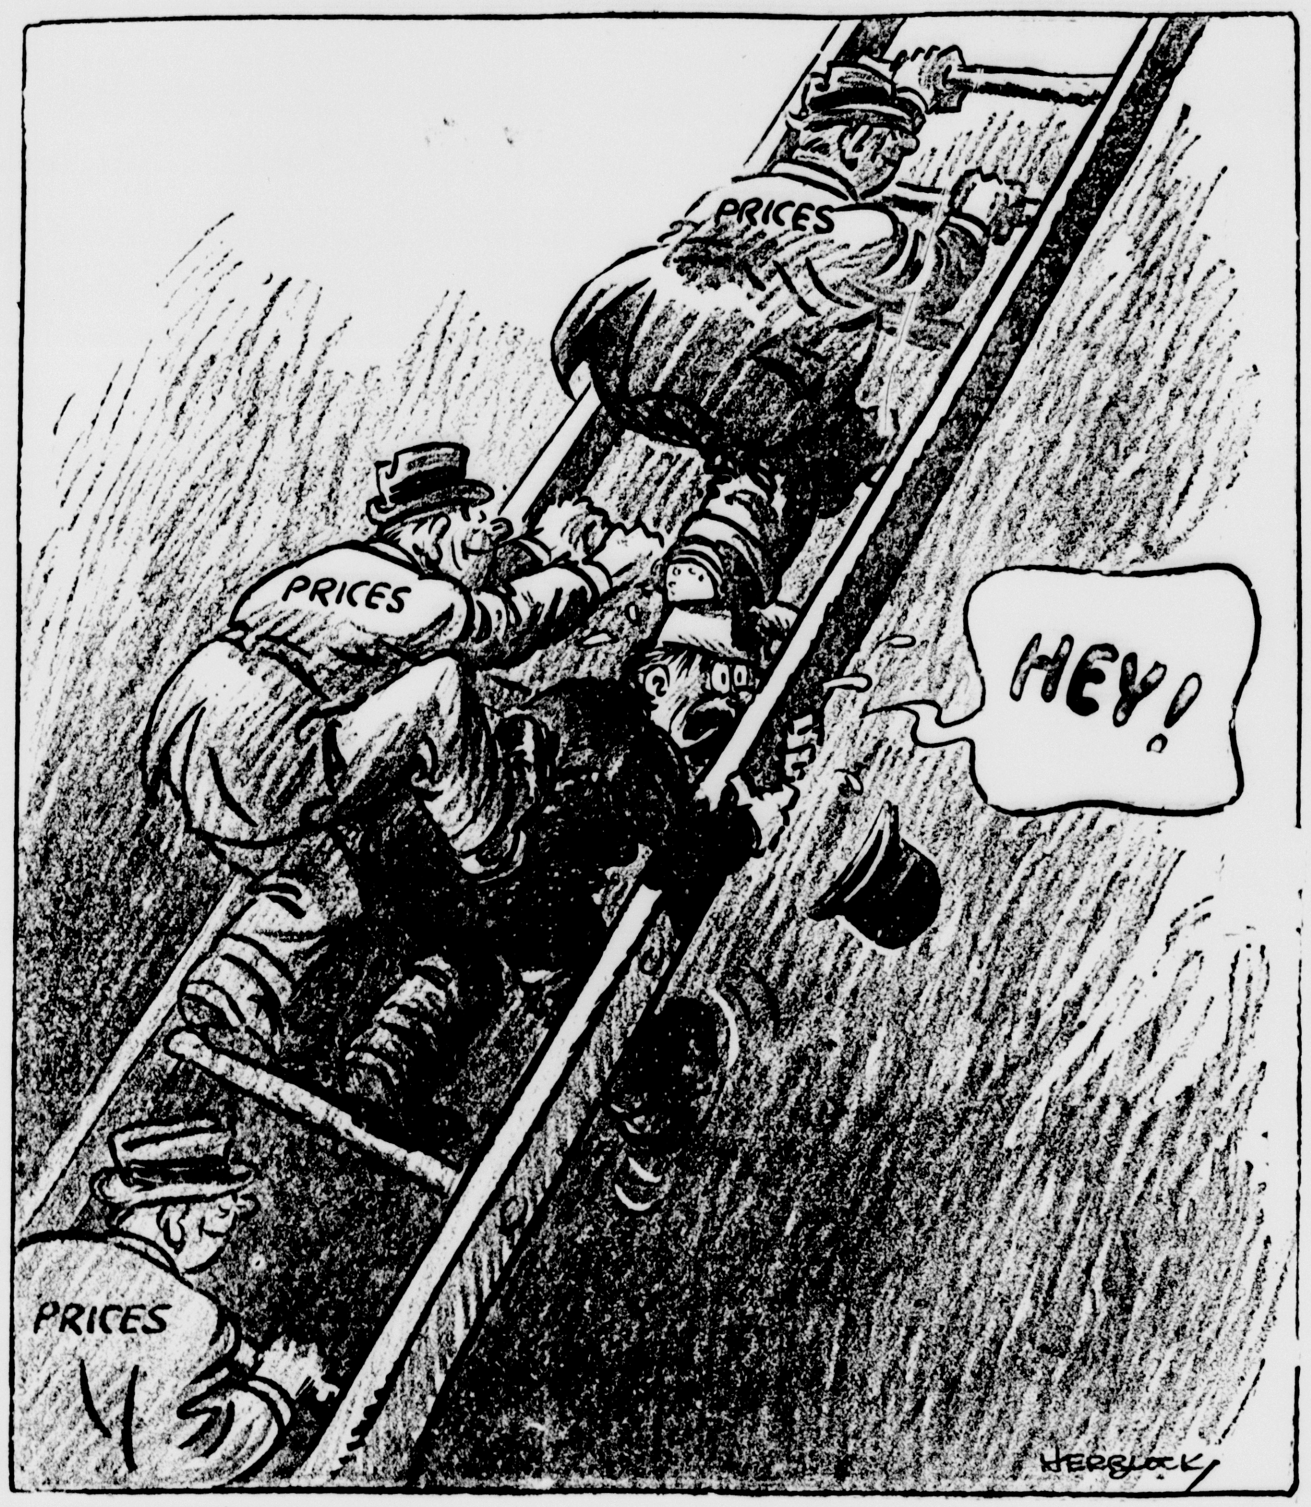
CLIMBING OUT OF THE HOLE



The Literary Guidepost

BY JOHN SELBY

"KING JASPER," by Edwin Arlington Robinson; with an Introduction by Robert Frost; (Macmillan).

THIS blank verse opus, the last from the pen of one of America's most distinguished poets, will neither add nor detract from the reputation some 40 years of writing built for him.

Of course, those 40 years witnessed a kind of writing in verse which only Edwin Arlington Robinson could have produced—that is what is important. The years have little to do with it. Chatterton was 18 when he died, and Rimbaud stopped writing at 18. But they are remembered for qualities that were theirs.

Now Robert Frost, perhaps the most distinguished of the American poets, alive or dead, raises precisely this same issue in his touching, appreciative and analytical foreword.

Mr. Frost calls attention to the fact that in recent years there has been an amazing scramble on the part of poets, old and young, to write in a new way. Mr. Frost has no quarrel with newness per se, so long as the result is a poem. But few poems have resulted from dropping rhyme, from omitting rhythm, from discarding sense. And he admires Mr. Robinson for sticking to his farms—once Mr. Robinson had discovered that he had a way of using them that was different.

The followers of Edwin Arlington Robinson will find again, in "King Jasper," that finely attenuated, involuted thought structure clad in the characteristic blank verse of which this poet was a master. The wars of strong personalities are vividly projected, and as usual, throughout the long work, lines fall like flowers across the page or strike into music as if the reader touched unseen strings.

I don't know Governor Landon, but if he has an eye on the great white throne, he ought to have the man quietly chloroformed who called him a Kansas Coolidge. That means going back to a federal policy of complete inaction.

LYRICS OF LIFE

PAN AND CRADLE

The patient miner pans the dirt
With steady hand and eye alert
To find the grains of honest gold
That even darkest muck may hold.
He does not hope to find a stream
With gold a-glitter and a-gleam;
Much waste must wash through ev'ry pan
To leave a little good for man.

So we must look at these our days:
With all the errors of our ways,
Some good as surely shall remain,
Reward us with some gleaming grain.
Among the words of thoughtless youth
We often find a word of truth,
And even demagogues may rage
And yet by chance appear the sage.

So men must listen and decide,
The substance from the silt divide
Within the pan of common sense,
The cradle of experience,
Wash out the dirt, the muck refuse,
And seek for something they can use.
So may the present tempest hold,
And leave behind, some grain of gold.

New York Column

BY JAMES B. RESTON

NEW YORK—The end of all writers, it seems, is not the river or a garret in the Village after all. There's the case of Willard Huntington Wright, who writes mystery stories under the name of S. S. Van Dine, and lives in a palace on top of a half-acre of roof overlooking Central Park.

Now personally, I'd prefer a three-room house along a noisy little stream in Connecticut, but this is S. S. Van Dine's story and nobody'd agree with me anyway.

In the past decade, Wright has become a fiction about the town. He has dabbled in the theater, and in art, and in sports for years and his beard is as famous on Broadway as George Bernard Shaw's. It is really an astonishing beard, considering he's an old newspaperman.

* * *

WRIGHT "cubbed" out on the old Los Angeles Times, and he had a hand in one of the frightful and fascinating events in the history of American journalism. He was assistant city editor out there at the time the Times was dynamited, and he missed being blown right out of existence by 10 minutes.

The employes of the Times had been warned repeatedly that the plant would be blown up if the paper didn't stop its campaign against racketeering in the town. The publishers of the Times were so certain that the racketeers would carry out their threats that they had built another plant underground in another part of the city.

Of course this sounds like Philo Vance stuff, but it actually happened. On October 1, 1910, the night on which the plant was blown sky-high, Wright was on the desk putting out the "bulldog" edition.

Late in the evening he had a splitting headache, and it finally got so bad that he had to leave his desk at 10 minutes to one and go home. He was supposed to work until 2:30. And at 1 a. m. a time clock device in the basement of the Times plant clicked and the dynamite, which had been cut into the blank paper rolls, snuffed out every man in the city room.

* * *

BUT one scarcely needs to go back to 1910 to find an interesting story about Wright. At the moment he is being hounded by the town's gamblers, who would like to know about the system of betting on the horses which he has developed. He seems to put more time and thought on this system, incidentally, than he does on his writing, which has put him in the millionaire class.

He has a private telephone on a loud speaker in his pent house which runs to every track in the country. Over this he hears a description of every race on the instant it is run.

Then to keep busy he breeds dogs and collects tropical fish and parrots.

A policy of isolation is called a "splendid isolation." Why is it more splendid to be by yourself than with others?
—Stanley Baldwin.

Frankly, there was no particular bitterness in England. You ask about the fleet being sent to the Mediterranean. Well, there was nothing particularly wrong about that.
—Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador to U. S.

News Behind The News

BY PAUL MALLON

—GET-TOGETHER—

Paul Mallon

Washington, Nov. 8.—Another of those White Sulphur Springs business conferences was held in New York last week, very, very secretly. About 150 of the foremost business leaders of the country were there. If you will read the big names at the top of the roster of the national association of manufacturers, you will have the rough list.

How such an assemblage could foregather, act and adjourn, without outsiders finding out about it, is the highest possible verification of the fact that nothing sensational was done. In that fact lies the story.

The unofficial topic under discussion was the same subject that comes to the fore whenever two business men meet on the street—the New Deal and its effect on business. The official topic was taxation, a far safer debating subject. After some sharp expressions of opinion, the conference is supposed to have agreed to start a campaign against increased taxation and free spending.

—DIFFICULTY—

At least this is the confidential report on the gathering as received by President Roosevelt. Its general authenticity has been attested elsewhere, although there seems to be some disagreement about whether taxation and spending are bi-partisan political issues.

At any rate, no direct action was taken against the New Deal. One or two outstanding business men who are Democrats are supposed to have attended the gathering. They opposed any step which would have a flavor of political partisanship.

The first result has been the publication nationally of a tip that the national business conference committee will start an anti-taxation drive. There will be more of that later.

—REASONING—

Leaders of the conference believe they made a wise decision. Nine-tenths of those present were probably against the New Deal but they realized that their votes count for little. To make any action effective they had to take a step which would have the broadest popular appeal. The dual subject of taxation and spending seemed to meet the situation.

Furthermore, such a campaign may help to keep down the spending wing of the New Deal. Thus, its effect might really turn out to be nonpartisan.

Note—There was no sensible reason or excuse for the secrecy attending the gathering.

—POOLING—

There are many inside rumors that the Wall Street pool playboys have donned their swimming suits again. Gossips relate that the securities and exchange commission is checking up on a lot more pool operations than the one it has prosecuted.

The fact is the Sec has some ticker tape detectives of whom it is proud. Authorities here like to believe no large operations could escape their notice. They are always checking up.

What these detectives seem to have found lately is evidence that there could have been or might have been some pools in certain stocks. But proving it is another matter, especially because the strong price jumps of these stocks could also be logically attributed to particular conditions affecting them.

Neither the gossips nor the detectives can mention any names, nor are they likely to.

—TREND—

First returns from the Literary Digest poll so far are supposed to show a far stronger trend against the New Deal than any of the other indices yet published. The results will be out in about two weeks. Incoming postcard ballots of the next few days may soften the figures before publication. No one knows about that.

New Dealers here are grumbling that the poll question was improperly phrased. The question was: "Do you now approve the acts and policies of Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal to date?" The question submitted in the 1933 poll was: "Do you on the whole approve the acts and policies of President Roosevelt's first year?"

—RECIPROCITY—

It did not get out, but both President Roosevelt and Premier King have had men working in Washington on the subject of trade reciprocity since the Canadian elections. These workers brought the agreement much further along than has been publicly supposed.

Incidentally, Mr. Roosevelt decided to "bone up" for his King conference. He had the two government experts who were handling the matter run up to Hyde Park to inform him fully about their progress before he left his Dutchess county home.

Britain's current moves for peace are called an "eleventh hour plea," but according to developments in Ethiopia it's 1:30 in the morning.

"Music with meals," says G. K. Chesterton, "is an abomination." Well, a Chicago cafe became a bonanza with the slogan, "No orchestral din."

Everything is relative, of course, and we see that the first batch of Ethiopian slaves freed by Il Duce have been shipped to the mines.

ALL VETERANS TO CELEBRATE

Escanaba Armistice Day Observance Starts at 11 A. M.

"You were there with your outfit Nov. 11, 1918—be there with your outfit Nov. 11, 1935", is the word being sent out to war veterans in the Escanaba area as plans are perfected for the big veterans' parade which will be a feature of the observance of Armistice Day in Escanaba Monday. An effort is being made to get every veteran possible in the ranks of marchers Monday afternoon, and unorganized veterans are urged to turn out, as well as members of the VFW, DAV, Spanish War veterans, and American Legion.

CALLS FOR CARS

After the Armistice Day parade a number of automobiles will be needed to transport marchers and musicians to the athletic field for the football game. Those who are able to furnish their cars for this purpose are asked to call Phil Bruce of the parade committee. The cars will be asked to pick up their loads at the Elks Temple, where the parade will end, about 1:30 p. m. Monday.

The parade, which promises to be an impressive patriotic demonstration, is scheduled to start at 1 p. m. Monday at the junior high school, and will end at the Elks Temple. This short march was arranged to give all an opportunity to get to the Escanaba-Gladstone football game in plenty time.

Stores and business places in Escanaba will close at noon for the rest of the day. In the forenoon at 11 o'clock, American Legion buglers and firing squad will take part in memorial rites on Ludington street, and traffic will be asked to halt for a moment during the sounding of taps.

The Armistice Day activities will conclude with a Legion banquet at the Delta hotel and an Armistice ball at the Argonne Gardens.

Farmers Killed As Train Strikes Auto

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 7 (AP)—Two Bellevue farmers, Fred Luce, 32, and Don Callahan, 28, died late today from injuries they received when their automobile was struck by a Michigan Central freight train.

The deaths brought to nine the death toll from traffic accidents for five days in Calhoun county. Five have been injured fatally in 42 hours.

The condition of Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Earl, of Bellevue, seriously injured in a crash on Highway M-78 Tuesday night, remained unchanged, hospital attendants said tonight. Three persons died from injuries received in the wreck.

Holding Company Act Ruled Invalid

Baltimore, Nov. 7 (AP)—The 1935 holding company act—designed to give the government power for a sweeping reorganization of the utility industry—today was held to be invalid "in its interiety."

Federal District Judge William C. Coleman ruled to that effect and in those words in instructing the trustees of the American States Public Service company to treat the act as "invalid and of no effect."

Announcement in New York that an appeal would be taken apparently headed the case towards the supreme court of the United States."

Industrial America And The New Deal

We stopped a slender man with steel-gray eyes, who looked as if he might be 45. "Miners would like to be treated as well as the owners treat their mules," he said. "When they shut down the mines they don't turn the mules out to starve. And when they're working they keep their stables whitewashed and a vet looks 'em over every day. Mules cost money. Human beings don't. We just want to be treated as good as mules." But maybe he'd been fighting with his wife that morning.

We strolled along the back doors of the shacks. On one of the half-tumbled down porches an immense old colored woman was puttering around. My guide explained who I was and we fell to talking.

"We come up here from Alabama eight years ago," the old mammy said. "Times is bad but we's eatin' all right."

I suggested that of course she was a Republican. "You all means I WAS a Republican," she answered with a deep chuckle.

* * *

SUBSISTENCE MINERS

We left shantytown and drove up a winding clay lane to a long red shack nestling against the side of a shaggy hill, with oak and elm and hard-maple trees just beginning to turn golden and red. In front was an arbor laden with grapes, and below was a patch of field corn and a half acre garden To the right was a shed and tiny barn and, beyond, a pig sty and chicken house. A Jersey cow was munching grass in a little pasture beyond.

A smiling old negro came down the rickety steps and tipped his hat to us. He was "Major" Walker. He owned this four acres and the cow and sow and hens. He'd been a coal miner for 40 years. Now he was a miner and farmer.

This old darky has solved the problem of how to live. He is a true subsistence worker under his own power. He eats his own home-grown food. He sleeps under his own roof. He farms two acres of his four. His white sow presents him with three litters of sturdy pigs every two years. His chickens and cow work for him while he sleeps. He is not in the slightest concerned whether he works two days or five days a week in the mines—or whether he does not work at all.

"Workin' people is got to come to this," the 'Major' said, scratching his wise old gray head. "Maybe the government should have put all that money they spent feedin' folks into help gettin' 'em started so's they kin help themselves."

* * *

MINE FUTURE IS DARK

Pittsburgh lies some 40 miles to the westward from the "Major's" sylvan security. I talked to many coal men there, but there are two whom I would quote. The first is J. D. A. Morrow, the very able president of the Pittsburgh Coal Company.

"Within ten years only the completely modernized coal mine will have survived," he explained to me. "Of the present 500,000 bitumious coal miners at least one-half will be replaced by machinery. During the past ten years some 100,000 miners have been replaced by machine methods and another 100,000 have been put on the permanently unemployed lists through the substitution of gas and electric power. America has a possible annual yield of 800,000,000 tons. Our normal consumption of 590,000,000 tons has been cut down by the depression and the use of other fuels to around 340,000,000 tons."

My second interviewee was Phil Murray, the extremely intelligent First Vice President of the United Mine Workers. "As a result of the opportunity offered us under Section 7A we have been able to unionize 95 per cent of the miners of this country," he explained. "The United Mine Workers have some 550,000 men organized. We have 320,000 in Pennsylvania alone.

"I don't hesitate to say that 99 per cent of them are for Roosevelt. They actually look upon him as a savior. I think that it is a foregone conclusion that this state will go for Roosevelt. In Western Pennsylvania alone there are more than 100,000 steel workers and an equal number of miners. They have changed the whole political outlook. For instance, in Lafayette County the steel interests always controlled every branch of the government. Now there are 15,000 more Democrats registered there than Republicans."

* * *

DEMOCRATIC SWING

Second only to New York stands Pennsylvania's 38 electoral votes. Hoover won them in 1932. If Roosevelt can capture them in 1936 his election would be secure. Figures may lie a little but they are bound to be impressive. Let's look at a few:

In Allegheny County, based on Pittsburgh, in 1931 there were 29,000 registered Democratic votes. Today there are 237,000. In 1932 Roosevelt carried the county by 37,000. In 1934 Earle in his race for the governorship drew a plurality of 73,000 in the county—and carried the state and his Democratic ticket by 66,000.

But even more startling are the figures for Westmoreland County. In 1930 there were 85,000 registered Republican voters and 25,000 Democratic voters. In 1932, although the Republican registration was still 30,000 greater than the Democratic, Roosevelt carried the county by 15,000. In 1934, although the registration showed 10,000 majority for the Republicans, the Democrats carried the county by more than 19,000. In 1935 there were 66,000 Democrats and 65,000 Republicans registered.

A politician had this to say about the coming election—and I surely hold no brief for politicians: "No longer can industry and bosses vote their men as they wish. With unionization comes a new voting liberty. And with factories and mills and mines going again the prosperity shoe fits on the opposite political foot. It is the Democrats who can point now to the full dinner pail."

But he forgot to mention anything about the 10,000,000 unemployed who have neither a chicken nor a pot to put it in.

Unemployed Will Be Classified By NRS In Michigan

In anticipation of the introduction of the Social Security Act, Major Howard Starret, state director of the National Reemployment Service, announced today that he had been allowed the expenditure of approximately $8,000 to prepare an inventory and classification of the unemployed.

The National Reemployment Service is a part of the Department of Labor. Besides placing unemployed men and women on work relief projects the N. R. S. is attempting to place workers on governmental projects into private industry, thereby releasing them from jobs on temporary public works.

"The major purpose of the National Social Security Act and its provisions for unemployment insurance is to encourage the state to enact unemployment compensation laws," Major Starret said. "Competitive costs in different states will be equalized because a natural pay roll tax of 1 per cent upon all employers of eight or more persons will go into effect on January 17, 1936 and be increased to 2 per cent in 1937 and 3 per cent in 1938."

"However, if a state enacts an unemployment insurance law, 90 per cent of these federal contributions are turned back to the state funds," he said. "For that reason it is advisable for a state to pass an unemployment insurance act."

Keep Cough To Self And Prevent Spread

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Of all the diseases which afflict us, those spread by the mouth and nose seem to be most serious and most prevalent.

Although such diseases are more frequent in climates like that of the northern part of the United States, they occur also in tropical countries. Occasionally an epidemic of influenza will sweep the world.

A survey made not long ago in a large American city indicated that, for every person who died from a disease affecting the respiratory, or breathing tract, there were 337 additional cases in the community.

While these diseases are spread frequently by coughing, spitting, and kissing, they also are spread by other means which can be grouped under the heading, "hand-to-mouth infection."

The person who is infected may wash dishes and dry them, may transmit the infectious material to door knobs, to pencils, or other objects. These are then handled by someone else, who gets the germs on his fingers and carries them from his fingers to his own mouth, nose and throat.

* * *

Unfortunately there is no way to lock up people who have respiratory infection, because at times it would involve most of the people in the community. It is possible for you, however, if you have such a condition, to make certain that you are doing everything that can be done to keep from spreading your infection to other people. You can cover up each cough and sneeze. During periods of infection you can avoid the contacts that I have mentioned.

From a public health point of view, people who expectorate promiscuously should be fined and controlled. Common drinking cups and roller towels should be abolished, and eating places should be compelled to use boiling water for cleaning glasses, cups, spoons and similar utensils, every time they are used.

In hospitals, orphan asylums, and similar institutions, people who suffer from coughs and colds and who must remain at work can, of course, wear face masks during the time when they are in contact with other people.

During the great influenza epidemic of 1918 an elevator man wore a face fask, but always lifted it when he was about to cough. In other words, he was of the selfish type who was protecting himself, but did not care how many other people he infected.

Before we gain any control whatever over the respiratory diseases, we shall all have to develop a public health conscience!

KINSEY JOINS NYA

Iron Mountain—Changes occurring with the advent of the WPA have found their way into the personnel of the county ERA organization, with the result that William F. Kinsey is no longer county relief administrator and Mrs. Mary Newkirk is no longer case work supervisor in the county.

Kinsey's new title today is acting regional supervisor of the national youth administration and Mrs. Newkirk is acting county ERA administrator. Miss Jean Cudlip succeeds Mrs. Newkirk as county case work supervisor, and Mrs. Ebba Courtis, formerly deputy county ERA administrator, is now assistant in the WPA procurement office. Changes have occurred, also, in the clerical lineup.

Kinsey today was in Lansing conferring with William N. Haber, state youth administration director, and other officials relative to his new duties. Mrs. Newkirk and her assistants are carrying on in the ERA with such funds as are received from the state, it having already been announced that there will be no federal money for direct relief.

ANOTHER SOUSA LEADS A BAND

As pretty Priscilla Sousa, above, twirled her baton and strutted at the San Diego Exposition, bandmen struck up "Stars and Stripes Forever," in honor of her illustrious grandfather, the late Bandmaster John Philip Sousa. Priscilla's dad, John Philip, Jr., was feted, too, at the fair's Old Home Town Band Day celebration.

ROAD JOBS AID IN EMPLOYMENT

Around 700 Men Used on Several Projects in Delta County

Much of the employment slack in Delta county, especially in the eastern half, is being taken up by federal highway construction projects, which are now using in the neighborhood of 700 men.

Three grading projects are under way east of Rapid River, in addition to a half dozen bridge jobs, the largest being one spanning the Whitefish river near Rapid River.

In about two weeks, another two-mile grading job is expected to get under way in the city of Escanaba to help the unemployment situation here. C. G. Bridges of Escanaba has the contract, which calls for grading and drainage structures on South 23rd street to connect up US-2 and M-35.

Ben Bernie Weds Dorothy Wesley

Towson, Md., Nov. 7. (AP)—Ben Bernie, the old maestro of stage, movies and radio, was married here tonight to Dorothy Wesley, 26, of Miami Beach, Fla.

The band leader, in high good humor, gave little evidence that it was his second plunge in the matrimonial sea. He was nervous, giggled at the "love, honor and obey" moment, and forgot to kiss his bride—until she reminded him.

On the marriage license, the name was "Benjamin Bernie." He was divorced from his first wife Sept. 16, 1935 under his real name, Benjamin Anselvitz. He said he was 44.

The "yowzah" star said he and his bride would remain here tomorrow for the races at Pimlico and would return tomorrow night to New York.

CHAPTER XXXIII

Larry Glenn sat on a table in the Division of Investigation office and looked down at the shyster medico, Doc Jeckers. Jeckers cowered in his chair, the defiance that had marked his demeanor earlier that day completely vanished; instead he cringed and was humble, and his hands kept twisting and rubbing each other as if he had no control over them.

"You'll let me have that box—after?" he begged.

Larry nodded. "Just as soon as you've told me what I want to know."

Jeckers made a violent effort and regained a semblance of self-control.

"Just what do you want to know?" he asked.

"I want to know about this man you treated for a gunshot wound. First of all, when was it?"

"It was—let's see—four days ago. This's Thursday, isn't it? This was late Sunday night. About midnight, or such a matter."

"Tell me all about it. Everything."

The little man darted a longing glance at the pill box in Larry's hand, moistened his lips, and began:

"I got a ring there in my place," he said. "A man I'd—treated before. He gave me a—name that we'd used before, so I knew it was him. He said to come right out to a North Side apartment to take care of a man who'd got hurt. He gave me the address."

"What was that address?"

"Apartment 23, in the Ranelegh apartment building, out on the drive."

"Go ahead."

"I called a cab and hurried out. I got there in about half an hour and buzzed the buzzer and went right up. There were four men there. One of them had been shot through the shoulder. He—"

"Just a minute. Who were the men?"

"I didn't recognize any of them. I'd never—"

"Who were the men?"

"I'm telling you—"

"Come off it," said Larry roughly. He got up and slipped the box back into his pocket. "If you're not going to come clean—"

"So help me," said Jeckers desperately, "I don't know who they were. I knew this one guy—that is, I'd seen him before—but I never knew his real name. All I knew was they called him Wingy."

"And you didn't even have a notion who he was, or who any of the others were?"

* * *

Larry towered over him, looking down menacingly. Jeckers looked wildly about him, as if seeking a way to escape, and met only the stony gazes of the other agents. "How about it—quick!" rapped Larry.

"Well, I might've had a hunch—" said Jeckers nervously.

"What was that hunch?"

"I might've figured—" Jeckers twisted his hands in agony of apprehension. "I—one man was big and red-haired. I figured he looked like Red Jackson—I mean like the pictures I've seen in the papers, and so—"

"All right. We'll let it go at that. How about the man who was shot?"

"He was tall and light-haired, and tanned," said Doc Jeckers, obviously relieved to be through with the painful business of identifying the nation's most badly-wanted criminal, who was notorious for the punishment he meted out to people so reckless as to give the authorities information about him. "Youngish chap, looked like he might've been a cowboy or something. He'd been shot—"

He lapsed into medical jargon to describe the wound; the gist of it was that although the man had been seriously weakened by loss of blood the wound had not been infected, no bones or vital organs had been hit, and recovery should be relatively speedy. He had bathed and dressed the wound, administered a shot of antitetanus serum, and then taken his departure.

He added that he had inquired if he should return to look at the wound the next day. The red-haired man, he said, had countered by asking if the wounded man could endure an auto trip; and on being told that he could endure it, although it would not be very good for him, the red-headed man had said that they probably would not be in Chicago 24 hours hence. Then the doctor had gone back to his home.

A few more questions satisfied Larry that there was no more useful information to be had from Doc Jeckers. He tossed the little pill box in the man's lap with a contemptuous "Here you are, then," and withdrew to Matthew's office, while Matthews arranged for Jeckers' transfer to jail.

"We're still about two jumps behind them," said Larry, as the five agents sped along the drive in their car, 10 minutes later. "Maybe we'll learn something though."

* * *

They reached the Ranelegh apartments—a big, square building of yellow brick, looking like a thousand other city apartment houses all over the land. Larry rang for the janitor, they displayed their credentials, and the janitor informed them that suite 23 had been engaged by two men some months ago. The men had been out more than they had been in, it seemed; whole weeks would pass during which they never came near the place. Sunday evening, however, they had arrived and taken possession—apparently accompanied by two other men—and 24 hours later they had disappeared again. As far as the janitor knew, they had not since returned.

Somewhat unwillingly, the janitor led them up to the apartment and opened the door with his pass key. The agents found themselves in a perfectly ordinary six-room furnished apartment, and they immediately set to work to search it from one end to the other.

The men who had occupied the place had done little or nothing evidently, to soften the bleakness of the ordinary suite of this kind. They had added no furniture, no decorations of any kind; aside from a vague untidiness, there was nothing to indicate that anyone had ever occupied the place. There were a few tins of food in the cupboard in the kitchen; the beds were rumpled, and two plush cushions on the living room couch were mussed, while a blanket lay over the back of the couch, as if someone had bedded himself there for a night.

Several empty bottles stood on a living room table, and a few glasses with stale highball dregs in them. Ashtrays were filled with cigaret butts. Soiled towels hung on the racks in the bathroom; there were a few unwashed plates on the dining room table; a few newspapers had been dropped on the floor here and there, and a detective story magazine lay in a corner of the living room.

Peters and LaRocco were busy with their fingerprint apparatus collecting prints from the glasses and bottles. Gunderson was methodically going through drawers and cupboards and finding nothing worth a second glance. Matthews was busy in the kitchen. Larry Glenn stood in the living room, looking slowly about him for some clew, however slight, that would shed some light on the sudden move the occupants of the apartment had made.

Over in the corner there was a little table bearing a telephone. Larry strolled over and stood frowning down at the instrument. He bent and picked up a phone book, and riffled through the pages with care, looking for scribbled numbers, notes, checkmarks—anything. The quest was useless. The book seemed as new and untouched as the day it came from the printers.

He laid it down and glanced about him. Then he saw what he was after. On the tan wallpaper close to the door frame, three feet from the telephone stand, was something scribbled in pencil. He bent closer to look at it. Someone, apparently, had written a phone number on the wall: Midlothian 326.

Matthews came into the room and Larry called him. He came over and looked at the number which Larry was copying into a notebook.

"That's not a Chicago exchange," said Matthews.

"No?"

"No. Anyhow, all Chicago numbers would have four numerals."

Larry gave the number another scrutiny. "That's been written recently," he said. "You can tell—look—it isn't smudged or faded. Somebody wrote that down on this last visit, if I'm not greatly mistaken."

Matthews bent to take a second look and nodded agreement. He called Gunderson, and when the agent reached his side he said:

"Look, Gundy, copy that number and then slide down to the phone company headquarters and find out where in the United States there's an exchange named Midlothian. You may have to spend half the night at the job but find out. I know it's not a Chicago exchange, and I doubt if it's anywhere in this area. I never heard of it before, anyhow. But stick with it until you find out. Look up the phone company's traffic manager—man named Edward Huth—he's a pretty good scout and he'll see you get the help you need."

Gunderson copied the number and departed. Peters and LaRocco came in, to report that they had finished recording all the fingerprints that could be found.

"We'll go back downtown and develop those prints and compare them with what we've already got," said Larry. "By that time we ought to be hearing from Gunderson."

So they all went back to Matthews' office, through the late afternoon traffic rush. An hour later LaRocco handed Larry the pictures he had developed, still moist. Larry spread them on a table and compared them with the facsimiles of the Jackson gang's prints which he carried with him.

"Well, it's no surprise, of course, but these are the birds," he said at last. "Most of these prints are pretty badly smudged, but we've enough to go on. Here's Red Jackson's, big as life, and Wingy Lewis's. That's enough."

As he was putting his facsimile cards back into his pocket the door opened and Gunderson came in.

"It's back in your bailiwick, Mr. Glenn," said Gunderson. "That phone number is in a little town named Midlothian, about a hundred miles from Dover. It belongs to a farmer named Engle, who lives out on the edge of town."

'Sleeping Sickness' Strikes Horses

Lubbock, Tex. (AP)—"Sleeping sickness" among horses has reached epizootic proportions on the South Plains, according to Dr. F. G. Harbauth of Texas Technological college. Scores of horses and mules have been afflicted, he said, explaining the ailment resembles "botulism," often caused by feeding moulded grain.

Parrots are common in Ethiopia and they roost hanging to tree limbs by their curved bill.

PIGSKIN POINTERS by COACH ROOSE

HOW TO PLAY HALFBACK

THE first qualification of a halfback a coach looks for is looseness at the hips. If a fellow is loose in that section of the body, he can be developed into a running back with the elusiveness of a Red Grange.

A halfback is not necessarily required to hit the line. One of the backs can be a bit heavier than the other for this duty, or the fullback can be relied on entirely for line bucks. But one of the halves must be shifty, able to pick holes, with plenty of leg drive.

One of the most valuable steps a halfback can master is the side-step. In using this way of eluding tacklers, he holds the ball in the arm away from his opponent, shows him a leg, and then by means of the hip muscles, pulls the leg away by jumping to the side. The straight-arm is used with this step to make it more effective

TIME EXTENDED ON CCC QUOTAS

Additional 20 Men Will Be Furnished By Delta County

Due to the fact that some counties did not fill their quotas by Oct. 31, the time for taking additional enrollments in the Civilian Conservation Corps has been extended to Nov. 16, according to word received by W. R. Mc Gee at the relief administration office in Escanaba. Although Delta county exceeded its quota by eight during the October enrollment period, Mr. Mc Gee has notified the major in charge of CCC recruiting that this county is ready to furnish about 20 more men this month.

The age limits for CCC enrollees is 17 to 28 years, and requirements specify that they must come from relief families.

It is estimated that there are about 500 young men from Delta county now employed in CCC camps. About 300 have been assigned to camps since the enrollments were taken over by the Escanaba ERA office April 1, Mr. Mc Gee reports. This includes 72 selected in October and 162 for the previous enrollment period.

Don't Shut Windows Too Much In Winter

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Now that the winter season is coming on us, we will begin to close tight the windows in dwellings and in offices in which we live and work, and many people will begin to suffer from bad or vitiated air.

Cold air is stimulating. Fresh air seems to be the one real tonic of which we have any information.

When you go from a room with vitiated air into the fresh air, you feel stronger and more capable of doing a good day's work.

But there is also, at the same time, the possibility of overexposure to cold. You know, this overexposure has the definite effect of lowering resistance of the body to disease.

When you are exposed for long periods of time to bad air, you begin to feel the effects almost immediately, and they gradually become worse. There is a feeling of tiredness, then come headache and dizziness, and later collapse.

* * *

In the Black Hole of Calcutta, in 1756, 146 men were shut into a room 18 feet square, with only two small windows on one side. They were shut in at 8 p. m. When the doors were opened the next morning at 6:20, only 33 were living.

At the battle of Austerlitz, 300 Austrian prisoners were captured by the soldiers of Napoleon and put into a small cellar. Within a few hours, 260 were dead.

Several explanations have been offered as to effects of bad air. Apparently the effects are not due to any poisonous substances contained in the air that is breathed out.

One poisonous substance of which we have knowledge is carbon dioxide gas. There is hardly a sufficient amount of this present to bring about such serious results.

* * *

The experts feel that the effects are physical as well as chemical. The heat-regulating mechanism of the body is involved.

It becomes impossible for the body to give off heat because of the physical condition of the air. As a result, fundamental changes take place in the body tissues, resulting eventually in death.

Some people feel that the stimulation of winter is responsible for the increased progress of civilization in northern zones.

Certainly all of us should take advantage of these well-established facts.

Clarence Darrow Pleads For Convict

Cedar Rapids, Mich., Nov. 7. (AP)—Clarence Darrow's plea for Lyle Messner, 22, Cedar Rapids youth serving a life sentence for the attack-murder of a six year old girl eight years ago, roused a concerted protest today from Cedar Rapids mothers.

Darrow, long an underdog defender, Tuesday appealed to Gov. Clyde L. Herring to grant Messner executive clemency, declaring:

"I couldn't sleep nights if I did not try to do something for that boy."

The mothers' protest centered in the Parent-Teachers association of Garfield school here.

"All our members are writing Governor Herring," association officers said, "protesting any mercy for Messner," who confessed he attacked and strangled little Kathleen Forrest in the basement of a vacant house.

Dowagiac. (AP)—Delos Life, 40, was electrocuted at Eagle Point, Diamond Lake, today. He was trimming a tree when he came into contact with the electric current.

THE GUARANTEED ANTI-FREEZE

in your car today... and be safe the entire winter.

NOW AT NEW REDUCED PRICE $2.70 A GALLON

FIND YOUR CAR ON THIS CHART

IMPORTANT! The price per gallon of an anti-freeze means nothing unless you know how many gallons you will need during the entire winter. You can't get that information on a boil-away anti-freeze. But you can get it for Eveready Prestone...and here it is. See how reasonably you can get two-way protection all winter long against both freeze-up and rust with one shot of Eveready Prestone—one shot because it won't boil off, no matter how warm the weather gets between the cold snaps. If your car isn't on this chart, your dealer has a chart showing all cars; and amounts needed for temperatures to 62° below zero.

Find your car and read from left to right. The first figure shows the protection you get with one gallon of Eveready Prestone in the cooling system; the second with one and a half gallons—and so on. "+" means above zero. "—" means below zero. If your car has a hot water heater, add ¼ gallon to the quantity called for.

WON'T BOIL AWAY..PREVENTS RUST..HAS NO ODOR..FULLY GUARANTEED

Don't delay ... drive to your service station or garage today and have Eveready Prestone put in the radiator. That "one shot" will free you of all cooling system freeze-up and rust problems for the entire winter. The chart above shows the exact amount your car will need for complete, all-winter protection.

EVEREADY PRESTONE
THE PERFECT ANTI-FREEZE

Ask your dealer this one question

More than 100 brands of anti-freeze are being marketed under various names. Most of them are based on alcohol, and because many are not plainly labeled it is easy to become confused. Just ask your dealer this simple question about any anti-freeze you are considering buying: "How much of this product is alcohol?" That is important, for alcohol, no matter how disguised or what it is called, is subject to evaporation, leaving you without adequate protection.

Your dealer will tell you that Eveready Prestone contains no glycerine, no alcohol ... and that it will not boil off or evaporate. Then ask him to show you the specific guarantee on Eveready Prestone...in black and white, which is your definite assurance of all-winter protection.

Hebert-Tebear

Miss Florence A. Hebert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hebert, 609 South 11th street, became the bride of James Kenneth Tebear, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Doster, 209 North Tenth street, at a ceremony performed Thursday morning at 7 o'clock at St. Anne's church by Rev. Fr. Joseph E. Guertin, who was celebrant of the nuptial mass.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marieda Hebert, as maid of honor, and Miss Eva Marie Wells, who was her bridesmaid. Harry Hebert and Reese Hebert, brothers of the bride, were the bridegroom's attendants.

The bride wore a becoming gown of brown transparent velvet, with metallic hat, a matching hat of brown velvet and silver slippers and her flowers were yellow and bronze pompons. The maid of honor wore maroon velvet with metallic trim, a hat of the same shade of velvet and matching accessories, and she carried rose pompons and snapdragons. The bridesmaid's gown was of larkspur velvet with which she wore a blue hat, blue gloves and silver slippers. She carried an arm bouquet of pink pompons and snapdragons.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents, and a 5 o'clock wedding dinner was served at the Hebert home to members of the two families, and a small group of other guests, including Rev. Fr. Guertin and Rev. Fr. Anthony Waechter. A reception followed the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Tebear will make their home in Escanaba.

Two Escanaba Students Take Tau Beta Pi Pledges

Ed Moersch and Clyde Hirn of Escanaba were today named as pledges to Tau Beta Pi, national honorary scholastic fraternity for engineers, at an all-campus assembly held at the Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton.

Moersch is president of Kappa Delta Psi, social fraternity; circulation manager of the Michigan Tech Lode, student newspaper; a leader in the work of the Tech branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers; and has been a member of the track squad for the past two seasons. His election to Pi Lambda Kappa, honorary electrical fraternity, was announced earlier in the week.

Hirn has been prominent in Chi Epsilon Chi, under-graduate honorary society for students of chemistry and chemical engineering. Though he has never participated in varsity athletics, he is an outstanding player in many intra-mural sports.

Tau Beta Pi, now celebrating its 50th birthday, chooses members on the basis of scholarship, character, social traits, and leadership. The formal initiation of Moersch and Hirn and their eight fellow pledges will take place soon after Thanksgiving day. According to present plans the main address on that occasion will be delivered by Grover C. Dillman, new president of Michigan Tech.

Theatres

At the Delft

Joe E. Brown is always funny. This wide mouth film comic has an ever growing host of fans who follow him through his cinema adventures with unwavering loyalty and hearty laughter.

Anyone of them, and their name is legion, will willingly do battle to prove that Joe Brown is the funniest comedian before the public today.

Consequently, each successive Brown picture strives to improve on the last one, and there is far more argument as to which picture is the funniest than as to which player can claim that distinction.

One thing seems certain however. That is, that the First National comedy "Bright Lights" in which Joe E. Brown appeared for the first time locally at the Delft Theatre yesterday, is by far the finest picture he has made in many years.

One of the gayest and yet most exciting comedy dramas, involving both the theft of hearts and of costly jewels, made its local premiere at the Delft Theatre yesterday, under the title of "The Goose and the Gander."

Kay Francis and George Brent, who made such a hit in "Living On Velvet," are again teamed in the romantic leads. They make an excellent pair of screen lovers and carry out their characterizations with great artistry.

Miss Francis, stately and beautiful, plays the part of an ex-wife whose millionaire husband had fallen for the wiles of a pretty blonde, married her, and then attempts to flirt with his first wife.

Kay seeks revenge and manages to get the husband to visit her and at the same time maneuvers wife number two and an escort, bound on a philandering trip to a mountain resort, all under the same roof.

Men's Fashion Trends Revived

London (AP)—Some of the latest men's styles in evening wear indicate the revival of old-fashioned trends.

A dress coat has cape sleeves lined with white satin to match the white silk scarf usually worn in the evening.

A black evening cloak is lined with red satin and has a black frog fastener at the neck—rather military in effect.

Simple House Frock Easily Made At Home

BY MARIAN MARTIN

PATERN 9642

A budget-wardrobe should include among its members a number of inexpensive, home-made house frocks, if you'd practice home economy. This one has any number of "points" in its favor—the simply pointed nectline which takes to revers for finishing—the deep points of a triangular yoke, front and back. Nothing could be easier to make. For those inclined to be a bit plump, the center panel is just the thing to create an illusion of slenderness, while the narrow sash adjusts itself to any waistline, and puffed sleeves lend just the right note of femininity. Choose a sturdy fabric—as gingham or percale. Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9642 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards 36 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, the STYLE NUMBER and SIZE of each pattern.

Training For Correct Speech

Does your voice register feeling when you want it to? How to get an emotional quality into your daily speech is explained in this third of a series of four articles by Jane Manners on self-training of the voice.

Voice Faults are of two kinds. The basic one is bad tone production—the voice is throaty, high pitched, raspy or nasal. The other chief fault is poor diction— words are badly pronounced, too rapidly spoken, or slurred. Faults in tone production are more difficult to remedy than poor diction, which can be aided by an alert ear and an earnest dictionary habit.

No voice can be remade in a day, but conscientious and painstaking effort will produce results.

Speech is the bridge between desire and attainment. Skill in speaking produces self confidence and bestrows the priceless gift of expression.

Regular Practice Important

If your speech is poor, you are afraid to speak. All that is required to cure this bar to adequate expression is a few minutes of concentration every day.

Go into a room by yourself. Select a passage from a book. Read it aloud. Does your voice at your command, convey the feeling you wish to express? Is it pleasing? Could you appear in any gathering and be proud of letting it speak for you?

At the first trial, the answer to most of these questions is almost sure to be in the negative. So perseverance does it.

Try this exercise for making the voice flexible. Take the word Oh! and make it express the following emotions:

1. Sudden pain.
2. Pleased surprise.
3. Sarcasm.
4. Delight of a child.
5. Exhaustion.
6. Good-natured sympathy.
7. Hesitation.
8. Fright.
9. Impatience.
10. Indignation.

When you have learned to express, through the utterance of a single syllable, the entire range of emotion, you are beginning to make your voice a vehicle for the thoughts and ideas you wish to convey.

However, you cannot learn to speak beautifully and effectively by practicing only whenever you happen to think about it. Faithful, regular and persistent effort is necessary.

Pick Subject by Interest

Read aloud from five to fifteen minutes every day. Choose something that interests you, something that you can read with sympathy and real feeling.

Whether reading or speaking, make yourself heard.

When you are doubtful about the pronunciation of any word look it up.

Keep a note book with a list of words that you are learning to pronounce correctly. Copy each new word with the phonetic spelling, syllabic division, accent and meaning. Repeat these new words until you are sure that their correct pronunciation has become automatic. Adding to your vocabulary gives you a wider range of expression and also a wider range of thought.

Date Pesan Pie

One and one-third cups sweetened condensed milk, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup pitted dates, 1-2 cup pecan nut meats, 1 teaspoon vanila, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 unbaked eight-inch pie shell.

Chop dates. Beat eggs separately, beating yolks until thick and lemon colored. Combine milk, dates, nuts, vanila, salt and egg yolk. Fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff. Turn into unbaked pie shell and put into a hot oven (425 degrees F..) for ten minutes. Reduce heat to 300 degrees F. and bake half an hour longer. Cool thoroughly before serving.

If you want to serve this pie to quite small children you can use a graham cracker crust. Zweibach can be rolled and used just as you do crackers, too. These crusts are considered more desirable for small children than the usual pie crust.

Have steaks cut 2-3 inch thick and cut into 1-inch squares. Alternate squares of steaks on skewers. Sprinkle with flour, salt and paprika. Brown in fat melted in frying pan. Add rest of ingredients. Cover and cook slowly until meats are very tender. It will require about 50 minutes of cooking on top of stove and 1 hour in oven.

- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1-8 teaspoon salt
- 1-3 cup orange juice

Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake 1 hour in a slow oven (325 degrees F.). Serve from baking dish.

Now read the Classified page.

Almond Cookies

One cup butter, 2 cups sifted pastry flour, 1 cup fine granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 2 cups shelled almonds, ½ lemon.

Blanch almonds and put them through fine knife of food chopper. Cream butter and sugar and stir in flour. Add eggs, unbeaten, one at a time beating each one into mixture thoroughly. Add grated rind and juice of lemon and almonds. Mix well. Cover closely and let stand over night in the ice-box. Roll on a lightly floured board into a thin sheet and cut with cookie cutter. Bake ten minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.)

Kisses

Four egg whites, 1¼ cups powdered sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Beat whites of eggs until stiff, adding very gradually all but 7 tablespoonfuls of sugar. Beat until mixture will hold its shape. Sprinkle salt over and beat in with flavoring. Fold in remaining sugar. Shape with small spoon or pastry bag and tube on cooky sheet covered with fool's-cap paper. Bake fifty minutes in a very slow oven (257 degrees F.)

Hog and Hominy

One cup hominy grits, 4 cups water, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 sausage cakes.

Add salt to water and bring to the galloping boil. Sprinkle in grits, stirring constantly. Boil ten minutes over the fire, stirring to prevent sticking. Cook an hour over boiling water in a double boiler. Let stand over night and in the morning reheat. Put into a deep serving dish and drop a good sized lump of butter in the center. Surround with sausage cakes which have been pan-boiled until thoroughly cooked.

THOMPSON'S BAKERY

"Calumet sure gives you your money's worth, with that

Big New 10¢ Can!"

SAYS MRS. W. W. HICKEY, OF CHICAGO, ILL.

"THERE'S a lot of good baking in that 10c can of Calumet," observes Mrs. Hickey. "It's worth more than a dime any day!

"Of course, with my big family I get the pound can—and it's only 25c now. As long as I bake, Calumet will be in my pantry!"

Grandfather Rommel, who was a baker for 40 years, says, "Calumet takes the guesswork out of the job nowadays."

WHY IS Calumet different from other baking powders? Why is such a small amount needed—just a level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour in most recipes?

It's because of the way Calumet combines two distinct leavening actions. A quick action for the mixing bowl—set free by liquid. A slower action for the oven—set free by heat.

Calumet's Double-Action is so perfectly balanced and controlled that it produces perfect leavening. Calumet is a product of General Foods.

"SEEMS TO ME I used to spend my life opening baking powder cans for you!" Mr. Hickey remarks. "This new Calumet Easy-Opening Top is a cinch!"

The Hickey clan plays a game of bagatelle, before a birthday dinner crowned with a Calumet

MOCHA LAYER CAKE (3 eggs)

2¼ cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour	1⅓ cups sugar
2¼ teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder	3 eggs, unbeaten
¼ teaspoon salt	⅔ cup milk
⅔ cup butter or other shortening	¾ teaspoon vanilla
	¼ teaspoon almond extract

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in moderate oven (375° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Spread mocha frosting on cake. (All measurements are level.)

AND LOOK AT THE NEW CALUMET CAN! A simple twist . . . and the Easy-Opening Top lifts off. No delay, no spilling, no broken fingernails! And inside, there's a special, convenient spoon-leveller!

CALUMET
DOUBLE-ACTING BAKING POWDER

All Calumet prices are lower! Calumet is now selling at the lowest prices in its history... The regular price of the Full-Pound Can is now only 25c! And ask to see the new, big 10c can—a lot of good baking for a dime—with Calumet, the Double-Acting Baking Powder.

Food Mileage

FUELING the household machine is an important item these days. After all, on the road of daily life, most of us have to get the last mile out of every dollar we spend.

High food mileage means careful buying . . . . thoughtful selection of the foods that not only suit the tastes and physical needs of the family, but the pocketbook as well.

That's the value of advertising. Every day, here in your paper, are presented new and interesting food ideas. New ways of preparing old, reliable favorites. New combinations of the foods the family needs . . . in ways they'll like.

Standard, unvarying quality is the outstanding feature of advertised merchandise in general . . . and of food products in particular. Quite a factor in getting high food mileage!

Read the food advertised here in your daily paper . . . it will show you the way to higher food mileage

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—Wide fluctuations and heavy trading in power and light issues overshadowed other features on the bond market today.

A brisk rally at the opening was the market's initial response to Federal Judge Coleman's decision holding the public utility act unconstitutional, but large-scale distribution made its appearance around mid-day which caused a quick reversal in the trend. Closing prices of leaders were mixed with a sprinkling of good-sized net losses offset by a few net gains of a point or so.

The rest of the corporate list was somewhat irregular.

Closing prices of active issues included American & Foreign Power 5s, off 2½ at 66¾; American Water Works 5s, up 1 3-8 at 111½; Utah Power & Light 5s unchanged at 95, and Utitlity Power & Light 5½s, up ½ at 58.

There was a scarcity of interesting moves elsewhere. American Rolling Mill 4¼s got up ¾ of a point at 121; Manhattan Railway 4s advanced 2 at 72; Nickel Plate 4½s declined 1 at 59¾, and Studebaker 6s lost 1 5-8 at 67¼.

The Associated Press average of 10 utility bonds made a new high for a year or longer at 99.2, up .1 of a point, while the other groups averaged .1 of a point higher to .4 of a point lower.

Government bonds had a turnover of only around $1,000,000 and prices ranged from 2-32 higher to 4-32 lower. There was little feature to the dealings.

A drop of 3 points in Italian Public Utility 7s to 53 attracted attention in the foreign division where changes were generally narrow.

Transfers of $12,796,000, par value, compared with $13,612,000 the day before.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

MEN WHO TAMED the NORTHWEST

INDIANS roaming the plains of the northwest were curbing the advance of the white man. Horse stealers, murderers, and whisky runners were endangering the progress of peaceful pioneers.

Then, in 1870, a band of 300 men was organized as the Northwest Mounted Police, and advanced into the wild country to restore law and order. Soon, the fame of these men spread before them, and one unruly settlement after another was tamed and rid of its outlaws.

Today as the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, this famous force patrols some of the most isolated districts of Canada. And it does more than "get its man," as is popularly believed. Its men have traveled thousands of miles to rescue wanderers in the cold north, they have helped in Arctic expeditions, and still make notes on animal and mineral resources, on topography and weather conditions of Canada.

The stamp shown here, picturing a "mountie," is one of Canada's latest issue of pictorials.

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Nov. 8—In the most active trading since February 7, 1934, the utility shares took the bit in their teeth today and balloped up hill to a new high for the year.

Although gains of 1 to 3 points were turned in principally by the power shares, a handful of industrials also ran up for good advances. The rails, however, confronted with a lower carloadings total, were somewhat lower.

The buying blast in the utilities was touched off by the decision of the U. S. court in Baltimore that the public utility act of 1935 was unconstitutional. Final judgment brokers were quick to point out rests with the supreme court.

Highest Since September

Measured by the Associated Press average of 60 stocks the market was up .3 of a point to 54.0, the highest level since September 12, 1931. Transactions totaled 3,391,159 shares compared with 2,800,310 shares on Thursday.

The rush for the utilities started with the opening gong and power issues changed hands in blocks of 1,000 to 50,000 shares, the large blocks in various of the low-priced brackets.

During the first hour trading went at such a clip that the ticker was unable to keep up with the 1,310,000 shares which changed hands. This first-hour total was the largest since July 22, 1933.

As business proceeded the market was buffeted from time to time with profit-taking, but in the opinion of brokers, this was readily absorbed. The majority of issues in all sections came down the home stretch somewhat under their highs for the day.

Utility shares which went up from fractions to 3 points included American Telephone at 149, Commonwealth & Southern at 2¾, Consolidated Gas at 32 7-8, National Power & Light at 11 3-8, North American at 27 3-8, Public Service of New Jersey at 44 7-8, Standard Gas & Electric at 6 and Western Union at 68 3-8.

Industrials Gain

Industrial gainers of 1 to 2 points or more included Anaconda Wire & Copper at 33¼, Auburn at 37, Commercial Solvents at 19¾, Corn Products at 71¾, International Harvester at 59¼ and Westinghouse at 92¾.

Chrysler was down ¼ at 85 3-8 on heavy turnover, while General Motors was unchanged, also on large volume.

Freight loadings for the week ended November 2 dropped under the 700,000 mark for the first time since September 28. The total was down 27,164 from the preceding week to 680,662. The Associated Press adjusted index, however, rose from 66.8 to 67.1 indicating that the decline was less than seasonal. The week's total was 66,526 above the like week a year ago.

Wheat finished unchanged to 1¼ cents a bushel higher. Corn was ¼ of a cent lower to ¼ of a cent higher. Cotton closed with advances of 75 to 85 cents a bale.

In the foreign exchange market the pound sterling was up 3-8 of a cent at $4.92½. The French franc was down .00 1-8 of a cent at 6.58¾ cents. Chinese dollars stiffened reflecting a somewhat better attitude in foreign exchange circles toward the Chinese monetary situation.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Nov. 8—Late expansion of eastern buying, a development more or less associated with stock market strength, helped give a final upward trend to wheat values today.

Contributing impetus to wheat market gains was notice taken to discussions between Premier King of Canada and officials at Washington as to proposed reciprocal trade agreements. Earlier in the day material setbacks of wheat prices here accompanied reports of transient weakness of the Winnipeg market and of larger competing export supplies of wheat in Argentina than recent estimates had implied.

Wheat in Chicago closed firm at the same as yesterday's finish to 1¼ cents higher, with corn ¼ off to ¼ up, oats unchanged to 1-8 advance, and provisions showing a rise of 5 to 7 cents.

Prices of Chicago future deliveries of wheat gave ground swiftly for a while with December bearing the brunt of selling. December was especially weak, affected by arrival of a cargo of wheat in Chicago from Buffalo, a new instance of reversal of the usual movement of the crop. Execution of stop loss selling orders went along with 1½ cents break in prices at this stage.

Better buying support that developed later appeared to come largely from interests which beforehand had been sellers.

Corn traders took their cue mainly from the behavior of the wheat market. Oats held about steady.

Rye advanced with wheat on light buying.

Provisions reflected upturns of hog values and of grains.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—December 95 3-4, 97 5-8; May 96½ to 96 5-8, 98; July 89 5-8 to 89 3-4, 91 3-8. Corn—December 58 5-8 to 58 3-4, 59½; May 59, 59½ to 58; July 60, bids.

Curb Mart Spurts Sharply Upward

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—The curb market spurted sharply upward today under a heavy demand for utility stocks. Transfers soared to approximately 1,157,000 shares, the largest since July 21, 1933. This compares with 567,000 yesterday.

A heavy accumulation of overnight orders on power and light issues brought out such opening blocks as 110,000 Cities Service at 3 1-8, up ½; 25,000 Electric Bond & Share at 18 7-8, up 2 3-8; 35,000 American Superpower at 2 7-8, up ½. Gains of these and others were shaded by profit taking at the close.

Industrials also joined the forward move, but gains in this department were generally less spectacular, with even a few soft spots developing late in the day. Lake Shore closed nearly 3 points higher at 50½, while Parker Rust Proof yielded 3¾ at 73.

Various shares closing up a point or more included Aluminum Co. of America, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Hiram Walker, American Gas & Electric, Electric Bond & Share preferred and National Power & Light 6 percent preferred.

JUNIOR H. S. PLANNED

Iron Mountain—If members of the Iron Mountain board of education and officials of the sixth district WPA here can get together on what part of the building should be approved for a start with the project, the city may secure a junior high school to relieve congestion at both the senior and Hulst junior high buildings. Negotiations between the board and the WPA for such a project are in progress. A conference yesterday ended, however without definite result.

It has been proposed that plans for a building be prepared and submitted as a WPA project, with a request for early approval and authorization of work this winter; that of the estimated cost the school board assume a fair share, and that, if any part of the structure be approved as an initial project, the board meet its share in proportion to the total cost.

Streets in Ethiopia are kept clean but not by any effort of any individuals. The hawks, vultures, ravens, crows and pi-dogs do the work and make an unusually good job of it.

He wears a double cartridge belt which weighs about twenty pounds when filled with miscellaneous cartridges, and carries a rifle, many of them being French army guns of the 1870 period. It is with difficulty he finds in his collection of cartridges one that fits perfectly his rifle.

Joe Anderson Scores Kayo Over Marty Kosky

MARINE OUT IN FINAL ROUND

Crocker Wins by Knockout; Kanerva Loses to Ben Myrotek

In a slam bang battle that was fairly even until the fifth and final round, Joe Anderson, Gladstone, 135 Wisconsin state middleweight A. A. U. champion, put one on the button of Marty Kosky that put the marine flopping on his ear and earned the Upbay boy victory by a knockout in the final bout of the amateur boxing card at the Argonne Gardens last evening.

All in all, it was one of the best cards presented at the Gardens in the last year. Two of the battles ended in knockouts, two in technical knockouts and three went to decisions. The opener, an amusing affair between a colored lad and one of the white race was called a draw.

In the semi-final, Omar Crocker, popular baby-faced battler of Iron Mountain, knocked out Bert Hellwick of Manitowoc in the second round. Crocker had a decided edge in the first frame and put the boy who won a decision the night before at Green Bay away in about a minute of the second round.

Box Car Defeated

Box Car Karnerva, Gwinn, who conceded 12 pounds to Ben Myrotek lost a decision to the Manitowoc fighter. Box Car was plenty willing and was boring in all the time but Myrotek proved by far the more experienced and took four of the five rounds.

Johnny Haindl, Cooks, cooly boxed his way to a decision over Sailor Bedard of Nahma.

Roy Anderson, Gladstone, went down to defeat before Chuck Ponerius, CCC Sandstrom, in a fairly close battle. Anderson conceded 14 pounds to the civilian conservation camp fighter in facing him.

Bud Timox of CCC Singleton won by a technical knockout over John Maslewicz of CCC Sandstrom in the third round. The battle was stopped just before the close of the frame.

Jerome Deloria also won by a technical knockout putting away Goose Goosens, CCC Wells, in the third and final round.

Miles Betts of Marquette turned in a capable job as third man in the ring. L. J. Menor, Marinette, and Laurence Schultz, Stephenson, served as judges.

view of the other grounds. But this may be taken to mean that the securities and exchange commission will not be disturbed, Judicially speaking, insofar as its powers to regulate the sale or distribution of securities in interstate commerce are concerned, a circumstance that tends to support the theory that securities control will be sustained but not federal control of the management of the companies whose securities are being sold in interstate commerce.

Has Good Reputation

There was nothing really surprising in the opinion of Judge Coleman, who, by the way, enjoys a reputation as a fair and experienced judge and one who has rarely been reversed by the higher courts because of the legal soundness of his opinions. The Coleman opinion is absolutely in line with the opinions rendered to members of congress and mentioned during the debate on the "death sentence" last summer. But the bitterness of feeling over the Utility bill was so extensive that Constitutional arguments were brushed aside as inconsequential.

Anybody who has read the precedents on which Judge Coleman has rendered his opinion, and they are well known and frequently cited at the bar, cannot but be impressed with the fact that the constitutional doctrines set forth by him in this case are in close accord with those expressed repeatedly by the Supreme Court of the United States.

Drastic regulation of utilities may be a desirable thing—in fact, there are compelling and persuasive reasons for bringing it about—but neither that reform nor abolition of the Holding companies altogether can be accomplished by Congress at present, for, as Chief Justice Hughes remarked in the Scheschter case—"The Constitution does not provide for it." If the New Dealers wish to offer an amendment to the Federal Constitution to cover the case, that's another matter. They have a right to do so. But if they attempt to phrase such an amendment they will come to grips with the question of breaking the "breathing spell" and reviving federal regulation of industry. The way to control Utility Holding companies is by proper control of the securities they issue—these already come under the 1933 law with reference to financing—and to make sure that the State Commissions protect the public interest either by adopting better State laws or by electing Governors who will appoint better State Commissioners. The remedy is by no means ineffective, as the Utilities have cause to know in their battles with Governor Pinchot in Pennsylvania and Governor Lehman in New York

Gridiron World Keeps Tab On Notre Dame's Victory March Today

BY ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—The college football war breaks out again tomorrow with major battles and consequent casualties forecast on nearly every big national front.

General interest will focus upon the attempt of Notre Dame's injury-riddled forces to sustain their sensational winning streak against Northwestern.

JIM CROWLEY
Fordham

Heading for their first unbeaten campaign since 1930 as well as the Rose Bowl, Notre Dame's shock troops figure to make it seven in a row despite the loss of several stalwarts, including Andy Pilney. Northwestern hasn't beaten Notre Dame since 1901, and will be in a good spot to shake off the Irish jinx.

Gophers Gather Speed

Of the remaining major aggregations among a total of eleven neither beaten nor tied in this years spectacular gridiron warfare, at least four run the risk of being ambushed.

DANA X. BIBLE
Nebraska

California's Golden Bears, pace-setting on the Pacific coast may be upset by Washington's Huskies. Marquette, invading the stronghold of the Michigan State Spartans, also is likely to be knocked from the unbeaten ranks.

Minnesota, fast gathering momentum despite conspicuous player losses, has too much power for Iowa in the Big Ten's outstanding game, but Ozzie Simmons will be a threat to the Gophers.

Princeton's powerhouse and North Carolina's high-scoring juggernaut, both ranking contenders for national honors, do not figure to have serious difficulty disposing of Harvard and Virginia Military, respectively.

Three other outstanding games on tomorrow's slate have vital bearing on sectional titles. Nebraska is the choice to beat Kansas and take over the Big Six leadership. Utah should overpower Colorado and take undisputed possession of the Rocky Mountain lead. Louisiana State, playing at home, may have a shade over Mississippi State in the day's main Southeastern conference engagement.

Penn Meets Navy

By way of demonstrating that it doesn't necessarily take an all-conquering team to "pack 'em in," tomorrow's biggest crowd is expected to see Pennsylvania and Navy, each the victim of three defeats, battle it out on Franklin Field. The anticipated turnout of 70,000 at Philadelphia also will be the largest in the east this season.

All told, upwards of 250,000 will witness five standout eastern games, including 65,000 for Army and Pittsburgh, 45,000 for Fordham and St. Mary's at the Polo Grounds and 50,000 for the Princeton-Harvard match. Six headliners in the Middle West promise to attract more than 200,000, with 55,000 at South Bend for Notre Dame-Northwestern and 50,000 at Iowa City for the Iowa-Minnesota game.

On the west coast a crowd of 60,000 is predicted for the all-important California-Washington duel at Berkeley with 40,000 more witnessing Stanford's drive against Southern California's Trojans at Los Angeles. The south's biggest turnouts, 20,000 each, are expected at Baton Rouge, for the L. S. U.-Mississippi State game and at New Orleans for Tulane and Georgia.

St. Mary's vs. Fordham

Beaten off on three successive Saturdays, by increasingly big margins, Navy's somewhat battered forces are given no more than an outside chance against Pennsylvania.

Army likewise appears due for another trimming, although it has at least a chance to upset a somewhat sub-normal Pittsburgh outfit.

St. Mary's, beaten only by California this year, looks to have sufficient power to turn back Fordham in the day's most colorful intersectional contest.

Syracuse will likely be extended to beat Columbia on the latter's home grounds. Dartmouth has no cause for worry in meeting William and Mary.

Holy Cross, tied once but undefeated, is the favorite over Carnegie. Yale figures to take Brown into camp. New York university, another unbeaten and untied outfit, anticipates nothing more than a good workout against the College of the City of New York.

In the Big Ten Ohio State and Michigan can keep pace with Minnesota by defeating Chicago and Illinois, respectively. Both figure to do so. Purdue has the call over Wisconsin. Indiana figures to pick up another intersectional scalp for the Big Ten by beating Maryland.

ARMY RIDERS TAKE TROPHY

U. S. Team Beats Chilean Crack Troop in Last Event

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—The United States Army team, tonight won the high-score competition for the second straight year in the finals of a three-night battle for the trophy presented by President Arturo Alessandri, of Chile, in the national horse show at Madison Square Garden.

Going into the final test, which called for three officers to take the difficult eight-jump course in single-file, the United States team found itself trailing the South Americans by three points. The Chileans faltered, however, committing seven faults. Uncle Sam's trio of captains Cal W. Ragus, C. C. Jadwin and Earl F. Thompson leaped in the breach and came up with only four mistakes to send the event into a jump off—the first time in history of the national that there had been a jump off for an international military team trophy.

In the final test, however, with the brilliantly dressed crowd of some 12,000 working itself into a frenzy, the invaders were no match for the well mounted U. S. officers.

Although the United States came from behind to take the trophy and Chile finished second, it was the much improved French team, led by Capt. Pierre Clave, that carried off the honors for the night.

On total team scores for the three nights, the Irish Free State finished fourth with 36 points and was trailed by Canada with 37½ and Holland, with 40½.

SPILLING the DOPE

BY JOHNNY INKSLINGER

The Washington Senators will play all their home games next season in the daytime, President Griffith has indicated. Nevertheless, the Washington owner will cast a vote for night baseball at the major league meeting in December. Griffith, an arch foe of synthetic double headers, sees night baseball as the lesser of two evils and believes that if night baseball can eliminate Sunday twin bills, it should get his support. The lights will not be installed at Griffith Stadium next year, however Griffith believes that artificial lighting could be improved if a set of lights were installed from a shallow pit surrounding the playing field, throwing the light upward, while another set of lights threw a beam down from 200 foot towers.

The erection of 10,000 addition seats at Navin Field in Detroit will cut the distance from the plate to the right field fence 40 feet which is expected to aid the home run slugging of Gehringer, Cochrane, and Goslin. It will be a handicap for Pete Fox, right fielder, however, as Fox will have to learn how to play the ball off the wall. The shorter distance won't help Fox's hitting much, either, as he rarely hits to right field. The distance to right field will be 327 feet, making it shorter than the right field in Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia, but still longer than New York, Cleveland, and St. Louis.

In an effort to get more color and more personality into the baseball stories of their team, the New York Giants have suggested to the baseball writers that the press box at the Polo Grounds be moved to ground level. The idea is heartily supported by the baseball writers who realize that they can write more intimate baseball by being near the players. Incidentally, the writers are ready to join a movement for the abandonment of all roof top press boxes in the big league parks. The overhanging press coop at the Polo Grounds is considered unsafe, anyway. About $5,000 will be needed to make the change.

Babe Ruth plans on laying his cards right in the laps of the baseball magnates at the December meeting. The Bambino admits he is definitely through as a player but is interested in handing a big league public relations bureau, to encourage baseball all over the country. If the major leagues fail to come through with an offer for a job for Ruth, the former swat king indicated he would go to England and teach baseball in that country. Ruth's plans for a talking tour of the country would fit in with the activities of George Moriarty who gives baseball talks around the country, and the moving picture shows of baseball conducted by Lew Fonseca and Roger Peckinpaugh.

This is the star center and sparkplug of the Middlefield (Conn.) Air Cadets football team a real triple threat player who answers to the name of Esther Burnham. Her teammates and foes all are boys.

Ferris Institute Beats Grand Rapids

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 8 (AP)—Ferris Institute broke a 6-6 deadlock in the second half to defeat Grand Rapids Junior college's football team today 13 to 6.

Girocco of Ferris scored the first touchdown of the game in the opening period when he climaxed a 75-yard march toward Junior colege's goal by plunging through the line from the one-foot line.

The Junior college crew tied the score just before the half ended when Darrow passed successfully to Schaubel from the five yard line. Schaubel failed to make his place kick good for the extra point.

Ferris opened up again the third period with a series of rushes which took the ball to Junior college's five-yard line, from where Girocco passed to Beebe for the touchdown. Davis converted.

It is claimed that one out of every twenty persons in Ethiopia is a slave and so thoroughly entrenched is slavery that when the king declared he was ready to send forth an army of 100,000 men to end slavery, he was forced to admit he would be met by a force several times larger than his own to oppose his plan to end slavery.

Kansas Uses Michigan's Punt, Pass And Prayer Idea To Good Advantage

BY BIFF JONES
(Head Coach, University of Oklahoma)

Norman, Okla., Nov. 8—In the Big Six Conference, Adrian Lindsay, the Kansas coach, is getting results with the punt, pass, and prayer system that has been credited to Michigan for years.

AD LINDSEY
Kansas

Possessing the outstanding punter of the Conference in Fred Harris, and a strong defensive line to protect what advantage Harris' kicks give them, the Jayhawkers' strategy against Oklahoma recently was to kick the wet ball to us and let us carry it all over the muddy field.

The success of the system came in the last 45 seconds of play, when Oklahoma elected to try and break the scoreless tie on fourth down on its own 45-yard line, throwing a pass that was incomplete and taken by Kansas there. Then a long forward pass, as dramatic as Notre Dame's last score against Ohio State, resulted, Hapgood throwing to Hayes, who leaped up on our 10 yard line to take the ball out of the hands of two Oklahoma defenders and step across the goal line for a 7-0 Jayhawker victory.

No Playoffs on Statistics

Prior to this play we'd had all the advantage in the statistics, making 11 first downs to Kansas' three, and 157 yards rushing to their 58. But of course, that's an old story, and no reflection upon Coach Lindsey, whose team played exactly the type of game he ordered and won with it.

Speaking of the team with the superior statistics losing, I recall two outstanding examples.

My Army team was playing Bucknell back in 1927, one of those great Bucknell teams ably coached by Carl Snavely, now doing a splendid job at North Carolina. As I recall the summary, Army made only three first downs to Bucknell's 16, yet we won 34 to 0 by completing long forward passes, shaking backs loose for long gains, and intercepting their passes for touchdowns.

Long Runs Offset Figures

Last year Mississippi State made more first downs than the Rose Bowl champion, Alabama, yet Alabama won decisively, 41 to 0, because of several long touchdown runs of 65 and 70 yards by Coach Frank Thomas' stellar backs.

Fielding Yost, daddy of the famous Michigan system that places so little importance upon first downs, summed it up appropriately when he said: "All our opponents' gains usually are made out in Ypsilanti." (Ypsilanti is a neighboring city of Ann Arbor.)

WESLEY RAMEY HELD TO DRAW

Grand Rapids Pride in Bristling Battle With Pacho

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 8 (AP)—Wesley Ramey, Grand Rapids lightweight, and Bobby Pacho, Los Angeles, fought ten bristling rounds to a draw here tonight.

The referee's score sheet showed four rounds for each fighter, and the other two even. Ramey fought the last four rounds with a closed left eye, but finished strong. Pacho was unmarked.

William T. Morrissey, promoter, said tonight he had withdrawn an offer of $20,000 to Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, for a title match with Ramey here in January. Morrissey said he made the offer three weeks ago, but had not heard from Sam Goldman, Canzoneri's manager.

In other bouts on the program, Kid Maxie, Detroit, 147, won a four round decision over Lee Witt, Kalamazoo, 149; Russ Kassan, Detroit, 124, won a decision over Gib Black of Newaygo, 120, in four rounds; Joe Stelnes, Detroit, 137, gained a four-round decision over Bud Getz, Kalamazoo, 140; Lee Belden, Kalamazoo, 148, and Chet Roberts, Grand Rapids, 149, drew in four rounds, and Mickey Risko, Saginaw, 166, was knocked out in the fifth round of the semi-final by Danny Wright, Kalamazoo, 163.

GOPHERS GET CRUCIAL TEST

Undefeated Minnesota Team Meets Iowa Squad Today

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP)—After having swept through all opposition like a tornado, the power of the undefeated, untied Minnesota eleven may get a supreme test tomorrow.

Minnesota, defending champions of the Western conference, collides with Iowa at Iowa City, in what should be the outstanding game of the conference campaign to date, despite the fact that the Hawkeyes were held to a 6 to 6 tie by Indiana a week ago. That tie, temporarily, chased the Hawkeyes out of the picture leaving Ohio State, Michigan and Minnesota as the pace setters.

Iowa, however, together with the surprising Michigan team, holds the key to the championship situation, as the teams enter the final stage of the title race, with four still unbeaten. The Wolverines must play both Ohio State and Minnesota.

Illini Meet Michigan

While the Hawkeyes and Gophers are battling at Iowa City, Ohio State, beaten only by Notre Dame, plays Chicago at Chicago, Michigan goes against Illinois at Champaign, Purdue meets Wisconsin at Madison, and Northwestern invides South Bend for a game with the undefeated, untied Notre Dame team.

That spirit of Notre Dame, a spirit so dramatically irresistable at Columbus a week ago, will rise to resist a definite menace to the national title hopes of Layden's lancers—a stubborn Northwestern eleven. Northwestern, despite only two victories in five starts, has developed into potent opposition and while Notre Dame is held favorite, the South Benders hold Northwestern in respect.

Determined to redeem their last minute defeat at the hands of Notre Dame, and to keep their slate clean for a bid at the Big Ten title, the Scarlet Scourge from Ohio State figures to win over Chicago and to give a true slant on the value of the husky Maroon star, Jay Berwanger.

Illinois, which has shown unsuspected weakness this season, will depend upon passes to upset Michigan.

PREPARE PLANS FOR UNDERPASS

Soo Line Railroad Engineers Work on Grade Separation

The Soo Line railroad, at the request of the State Highway Department, is now preparing detailed plans for the grade separation proposed for construction at the railroad crossing with Highway M-35 in the north part of the city.

Virtual assurance has been received that the highway department will approve the project providing the city will acquire a small amount of right-of-way necessary and assume liability for any property damage.

Members of the local commission have indicated that they will facilitate the project in any manner in which they may be able. However, as yet no formal action has been taken.

Construction of the underpass at this point would eliminate a highly dangerous crossing and one that has claimed several lives in recent years.

The approximate cost is estimated at $75,000 and it is believed that construction would require four or five months, if not more. It will be necessary for the Soo Line to raise their grade about 6 feet at the crossing point.

Born in Winterset, Iowa, Wayne moved to California at an early age and was educated in the schools of Pasadena and at the University of California. At the latter school he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity and a star tackle on the football team for two years.

While working at the studios one summer as a prop boy, Wayne was given the starring role in "The Big Trail," which marked his debut on the screen and his departure from the university.

Undefeated Upbays Set To Invade Eskymo Den

KEILMEN LOOK FOR VICTORY

Gladstone Seeks First Win Over Escanaba in Five Years

Gladstone, Nov. 8—With victory the price of the mythical upper peninsula football championship, a determined Gladstone high school eleven will travel to Escanaba Monday to meet the Eskymos in the annual Armistice Day battle.

HYDE PARK SEEKS GAME

Word was received at Escanaba high school yesterday from Hyde Park high school in Chicago asking if a game could be arranged between the two teams November 23 or 25. The Eskymo record had impressed the Chicago school and they desired to play the locals. The game had to be turned down, however, in view of M. H. S. A. A. regulations which prohibit post season games and more than eight games in one season.

Not only will the red and white clad eleven be battling for the U. P. championship but they are seeking victory over a traditional foe which they have not conquered since 1930 and this has added to the determination which has been shown by the locals in practice sessions this week.

The Keilmen on the basis of season's records apparently have the best of the argument, but if recent performances of the Eskymos are considered the elevens appear to be well matched and it looks like a battle royal.

Six Straight Wins

Thus far the Keilmen have easily disposed of every foe and have a record of six straight victories and no ties. The county seat eleven dropped two games, one to Norway and the other to Stambaugh, while winning five. They have gathered strength as the season went on, however, and appear at the present time despite injuries to be a formidable foe.

A recapitulation of the season's scores show that Gladstone has scored 149 points to their opponents 13, having their goal crossed only twice all fall, while the Eskymos have scored 160 points to their opponents 51. Foes of Escanaba have had little trouble scoring, the only team failing to do so being Negaunee which last Saturday failed to even register a first down.

The season's records:

Gladstone

Gladstone 25, Munising 0.
Gladstone 13, Manistique 0.
Gladstone 31, Ishpeming 0.
Gladstone 27, St. Joseph 6.
Gladstone 19, Marquette 0.

YANKS GET TWO

Oakland, Nov. 8, (AP)—Word was received here today by President Dick Devincenzi of the Oakland baseball club of the Pacific coast league that the New York Yankees of the American league have taken over Catcher Bill Raimondi and Outfielder Bernard Uhalt.

Hank Longfellow, Bill Shakespeare Meet On Gridiron

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 8 (AP)—Shakespeare and Longfellow will meet tomorrow—not to trade verses, but to play all the football they know as Notre Dame and Northwestern stage their annual struggle.

William Valentine Shakespeare, 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighing 182 pounds, of Staten Island, N. Y., will start at left halfback for the Irish. His resounding punts, accurate passes and running have been vital factors in Notre Dame's five triumphs this season.

Henry W. Longfellow, 6 feet, 3 inches tall and weighing 190 pounds, of Superior, Wis., will be at right end for the Wildcats. He is a good pass receiver and has improved steadily this season as a defensive end.

WOLVERINES IN GOOD CONDITION

Zuppke Sings Blues as Game Nears; Kipke Crew Favored

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP)—Coach Harry Kipke sent his Wolverine squad through a light, snappy workout at Stagg Field today as the Michigan aggregation stopped over here on its way to Champaign to encounter an old rival, Illinois, tomorrow.

The Michigan squad, which has spent a week scrimmaging against the trick plays of Coach Bob Zuppke, and developing a defense designed to halt the light, tricky Illini, was in excellent form as it went through the limbering up drill.

Resting here tonight, the Wolverines will invade Champaign Saturday morning.

Meanwhile, the wily Zuppke was "singing the blues" at Champaign, with the statement that his little light team couldn't possibly hope to hold its own against an aggregation which scaled 25 pounds heavier by the man. Zuppke also said it was unlikely Les Lindberg, Illini triple threater, would see much action, and that El Sayre, center, likely would be missing as well.

Kipke has drilled his squad for a week on defense designed to stop the Lindberg threat. On the other hand, Zuppke has built his defense to halt the accurate passing Michigan captain, Bill Renner.

Observers have predicted that Illinois' defense, centered on Renner's passing, may suffer from a Wolverine running attack.

The Michigan squad is rated to continue its winning streak over the smaller Illini.

Although Dixie squads have dropped only one decision in competing in six of the last 10 Rose Bowl battles, California really hasn't seen anything yet, according to followers of the University of North Carolina, which has a solid south behind it in its Pasadena New Year's Day game bid.

North Carolina's record this year lacks only one thing—a victory over a foe from another section, and the Chapel Hill institution isn't going to let another campaign slip by with a flaw like that. It has closed to combat New York University, another of this fall's unbeaten arrays, at the Yankee Stadium, Oct. 17, 1936.

The Tar Heels were letter perfect in repelling the best North Carolina State outfit in 15 years, 35-6. They previously repulsed Wake Forest, 14-0; Tennessee, 38-13; Maryland, 33-0; Davidson, 14-0; and Georgia Tech, 19-0. Duke is the only major obstacle between the prides of the Ol' North State and a clean slate, and 35,000, the largest crowd ever to see a football engagement in that vicinity, will see this pair have it out at Durham, Nov. 16.

Carl G. Snavely, the Lebanon Valley man drafted from Bucknell, is being hailed as a miracle man in his second year in charge of the Blue and White.

Passer Jackson Dots "I's" at 40 Paces

What has made the Tar Heels move along at such a rapid clip?

In Jim Hutchins, 18-year-old tennis player of Winston-Salem, North Carolina has a human battering ram. Experts say that this young giant is by far the most consistent plunger who has ever performed on North Carolina turf.

Don Jackson dots "I's" at 40 paces, his passing and punting being largely responsible for the threats the team offers.

Harry Montgomery, brother of Cliff, of Columbia Rose Bowl fame, is an elusive ball carrier and a splendid team captain. Harry shines particularly as a defensive sideback. He is considered Cliff's superior.

The other starting back is Herman Snyder, who serves as co-captain with Montgomery. Snyder attends to two vitally important assignments. He is an excellent blocker and backs up the line. Hutchins plays the sideback position opposite Montgomery, with Jackson playing safety.

North Carolina has four ends who would make anybody's club in Dick Buck, Andy Bershak, Bill Moore, and Buck McCarn. Buck stands out, but the others have starred consistently.

One Tar Heel tackle is Thom Evins, the large and fast young man who performed for his alma mater as a weight man in the IC4A games in California and in the National A. A. U. meet at Lincoln last summer, and who captured the 100-yard dash in the Carolina A. A. U. get-together two weeks later.

The other tackle is Johnny Trimpey, another husky who registered from Philadelphia and who prepped at Mount Pleasant in North Carolina.

North Carolina's guards are Van Webb, Emmett Joyce, Paul Pendergraft, and Charley McIver the former pair starting as a rule

Professor Snavely Rushes Tar Heels to Front

Babe Daniel, 210-pound center from Charlotte, twice made the All-Southern high school lineup. Daniel is described as being head and shoulders above any other pivot player in the Southern Conference. He outplayed Steve Sabol of State, whom Hunk Anderson called the ideal middle man so it appears as though the Tar Heel terror rates All-America recognition.

With many other schools having better material as a whole and vastly more reserve strength the North Carolina varsity is considered an accurate guage of the coaching ability of Snavely, who took Chuck Collins' leftovers in 1934 and went on to turn in the finest record made by a modern North Carolina team. Snavely in his inaugural year lost only to Tennessee and was tied only by North Carolina State.

Snavely is a football professor. He studies the game night and day, day in and day out. He prepares questionnaires for his men that are complete and instructive. The Tar Heels acquire much of the knowledge that makes them so smart on the field from these questionnaires.

Snavely employs all the up-to-date practices such as motion pictures which give his men an opportunity to see their mistakes.

Neither the south nor east would regret sending Snavely and the 1935 North Carolina varsity to Pasadena.

Superior, Wis., Nov. 8 (AP)—Because of a four-inch snowfall at the head of the lakes, the final football game of the season between the Superior and Duluth teachers, scheduled for tonight was postponed until Monday night.

Forward Passes To Be Featured In Meeting Of State, Marquette

East Lansing, Nov. 8 (AP)—A battle of forward passes impended tonight as the Marquette university of Milwaukee and Michigan State Spartans pitched rival camps for tomorrow's homecoming football engagement.

Both teams worked out in the stadium, emphasizing intricate aerial offensives. The Golden Avalanche, arriving 30 strong from Milwaukee, displayed a particularly confusing combination of behind-the-line laterals that ended in long accurate forward passes.

COACH FRANK J. MURRAY

The big, rangy Marquette squad showed surprising speed, at times easily equal to that of State. The Spartans had counted on superior speed as one of their strongest weapons against the foe.

The teams worked out separately, and in each case behind locked gates. The coaches met later, and exchanged greetings and advance alibis.

Warmbein vs. Buivid

The brunt of the forward passing will fall on Kurt Warmbein, for State, and Ray Buivid for Marquette. Both are halfbacks.

State, in addition, counted on its Tennessee Al Agett, Warmbein's understudy, to keep up the bombardment with his own short passes, and the driving thrusts through the line of its fullbacks, Art Brandstatter, Don Wiseman and Kurt Kuhne. It will have a full strength line.

The Spartans, in addition to attempting to preserve the fun of a big homecoming celebration, were defending a record of victories on the home field that has extended through 1931. It will be their last home game this year.

The twin cities of Lansing and East Lansing were flag draped for the celebration, as John Farrell Macklin, who coached State teams from 1911 to 1916 and first put the college in the athletic sun, arrived for the dedication. He gave two radio addresses, telling the community thaat he was "as happy as a kid" and pleased to accept the "greatest honor that could befall me."

He resigned as coach to become an industrialist in Philadelphia. Tomorrow he and Presdent Robert S. Shaw will give addresses at the dedication ceremonies between the halves that will name the stadium officially "Macklin Field." A banquet in his honor is planned tomorrow.

The probable lineups for tomorrow's game:

Another Match Is Signed For Louis

New York, Nov. 8 (AP)—It looks like a busy winter for Joe Louis, the Detroit's "Brown Bomber," who isn't happy unless he can crawl into a prize ring at least one every two months.

Another engagement was added to his growing list today when Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, who has the negro sensation under a long term contract, agreed to take Louis to Havana for a match with Isidor Castanaga, the Spaniard, on December 29.

The agreement came after two days of negotiations with Sam Talon, Cuban promoter, who predicts Louis will draw a $100,000 gate in the Cuban capital. The bout will be held in Tropical Park, the largest Havana ball park.

Louis will go to Havana soon after he meets Paulino Uzcudun, the Bounding Basque, in Madison Square Garden, December 13.

Jacobs now has four winter fights booked for Louis and has offers for a half dozen others.

In addition to the Uzcudun and Castanaga appearances, the Bomber will meet Charlie Retzlaff in Chicago, January 17 and then will come back east for another engagement in the Garden in March. His opponent for this fight has not yet been selected.

STATE FROSH BEATEN

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 8. (AP)—The Western State Teachers college freshman football team handed a strong Michigan State yearling team a 21 to 0 defeat here today. The Western State frosh scored their touchdowns in the last half after long marches down the field.

Friedman Denies Star Back Played As Pro In Chicago

New York, Nov. 8. (AP)—Benny Friedman, coach of the City College of New York football team, tonight denied a report published in Chicago that Bill Rockwell, halfback on his team, in reality was Ted Londos, former Oak Park, Ill., high school and semi-professional player in the Chicago district.

"It must be a case of mistaken identity," said Friedman.

The coach said that Rockwell had lived with his family in New York for many years and that his father was a mail carrier here. He said the player had attended Newtown high school in Queens.

Illinois Wins As Ward's Feet Get In Some Broccali

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 8 (Special)—Whatever type of surface the Michigan team has to play on when it meets Illinois, it won't have to play in long grass, coaches are satisfied.

They recall the wail Bob Zuppke sent up when he took his team into the stadium last fall. He claimed that the grass was much too long and would impede his fast backs. They mention also that apparently the last of that incident hasn't been heard as Zuppke was still telling the story when he had his team at Los Angeles for the Southern California game.

Speaking of the Michigan game, Zuppke said: "One of my backs waded through waist-high grass for a touchdown and we kicked. Then that negro fella—that Ward who's got longer legs than any of my boys, made one. But we won because when that Ward boy tried to kick he got his feet caught in the broccali."

MEXICAN WINS POOR DECISION

Chicago Crowd Dislikes Outcome of Battle With Davey Day

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP)—Alberto "Baby" Arizmendi, Mexico City seeking recognition as ranking challenger for lightweight honors was awarded an unpopular decision over Davey Day, Chicago, after ten blistering rounds in the Chicago Stadium tonight.

The votes of the two judges and referee were split, with the referee, Norman McGarity, and one judge casting their ballots for the Mexican and the other voting for a draw.

Arizmendi, conceding weight height and reach to the Chicago fighter, tore into him from the start, throwing punches from all angles. He carried the fight to his rangy opponent until the fifth round when Day began to assume the aggressive. He could not stop the Mexican buzz-saw, however who always charged into close quarters to fire away with his blows.

Day was the sharper and cleaner puncher, but Arizmendi was the more spectacular in his fiery charges.

Day opened a cut over the bridge of the Mexican's nose in the fifth round and cut him under the right eye in the seventh.

Arizmendi weighed 131½ with the Chicagoan scaling 134. The bout was witnessed by a crowd disappointing to the promoter with the attendance at 3,500 and gross receipts at $6,800.

LOUIS CAN PUT AWAY THE FOOD

Brown Bomber Can Consume "Vittals," Say Friends

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP) — Big money and 21-year old Joe Louis are getting along famously together, but . . .

How that man can eat!

Monk Harris, a close friend of the Brown Bomber who is heir apparent to the world's heavyweight boxing throne, has watched great eaters in action for more than a quarter of a century but when it comes to stowing away victuals in job lots he names Joe as the champ.

"Joe is the eatingest and sleepingest man ah ever saw," said Monk, shoking his head. "An' what's stranger, the more food he eats, the stronger and better he seems to get. Why, it's nothing—nothing at all—for him to sit right down an' eat five chickens for one meal. How that man loves his chicken!"

Monk, as amazed as his audience but insistent that what he said was not exaggeration, related some of Joe's "light meals."

Breakfast: A half dozen apples, some bananas, half a quart of ice cream and two quarts of sweet milk. (Monk said Joe was just a sucker for ice cream and apples at breakfast).

Lunch: Five chickens with all the trimmings, a big mess of black eyed peas and two quarts of sweet milk.

Dinner: Two or three big steaks and a lot of ice cream and milk. (Monk said that after Joe had weighed in for his fight with Max Baer that he ate a $7 dinner of "plain victuals" and then took a nap before getting married and beating Baer into a pulp.)

The other night, Monk said, John Roxborough, co-manager of the Brown Bomber, had a 12-pound turkey roasted and ready for some guests. Joe didn't know about the company, but he found the turkey and ate it up.

WRESTLING

Detroit, Nov. 8 (AP)—Danno O'Mahony, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling title, used his "Irish whip" to defeat Orville Brown, Kansas heavyweight, in 25 minutes of a one-fall feature match of a card here tonight. Each weighed 220.

In attempting to extricate himself from the Irishman's hold, Brown struck his jaw against O'Mahony's head and was carried from the ring. 10,000 fans saw the match.

Man Mountain Dean, Atlanta, 317, pinned Tom Jenkins, Chicago, 240, in the semi-final. The time was two minutes, 30 seconds.

Ray Steele, Glendale, Calif., 215, was awarded a match over Jules Strongbow, Broken Arrow, Okla., 286, on a foul. Bibber McCoy, Boston, 232, drew with Olaf Olson, Milwaukee, 225, in a 30-minute limit match, and Andy Rascher, Indiana university, 215, pinned Jack Zaravich, Chicago, 220, in 15 minutes, 10 seconds.

Ernest Gardner, 16-year-old Buckinghamshire, Eng., youth, has suffered seven breaks of his left arm, six fractures of his right leg, one fracture of his right arm, a fracture of one collarbone, and a fractured left leg, all due to brittle bones.

Short History of Michigan

The first Michigan house of representatives in session at Detroit in 1835 selected George R. Griswold of that city as their first clerk. Griswold was well adapted to the duties as is evidenced by his long tenure of office as Wayne county clerk. Furthermore, he was a prominent Detroit attorney from an influential family. His father was the proprietor of the American hotel, where many of the legislators stayed, and was also active in civic affairs.

On July 19, 1702, Cadillac was officially informed that his right to trade with the Indians had been revoked by royal order. At a council meeting held in the chateau of St. Louis in Quebec on Oct. 31, 1701, the directors of the Company of Canada (la Compagnie du Canada) presented an interpretation of their charter from Louis XIV which was in conflict with a later one granted to Cadillac. The council, which was greatly interested in the company for personal reasons, decided that the Cadillac grant was revoked by royal decree. Investigators have been unable to locate any such order from the king and have concluded that none was issued. This order to partly appease Cadillac gave him the complete military command of the post and the promise of payment for his investment and labor in its founding. Cadillac in writing to a friend in Quebec complained bitterly of the injustice and stated that he never would have gone to the effort of establishing the post if he had known that he was onl yto be the commandant.

WPA PROJECTS START TUESDAY

County Engineer Reports 77 Men Will Be Put to Work

Newberry, Nov. 8—County Engineer Sleeper reports that 77 men will be put to work on Tuesday, November 12, on WPA projects. These men, taken from work relief rolls, and a flock of trucks will start resurfacing and improving the village streets, $14,000 having been allocated from federal funds for that purpose. Work on Truman avenue, the central residential street of the village, and the one which is in the worst state of repair, will engage the men as project number one. It is not believed that this type of work will be practical all during the winter but Mr. Sleeper states that regrading and a foundation course of gravel can be laid in readiness for the oil aggregate in the spring. A WPA truck inspector will be at the county garage on November 18 at 8 a. m. for the purpose of checking and inspecting trucks and applications to be used in the service. He will be at Engadine later on the same day.

Newberry avenue pavement was completed this week, the Bridges contractors of Escanaba turning over the road to the public on Tuesday when the last of the workers removed the final barrier. This village now has as fine and wide a main highway as any town in the state. With the new lights along the curbs the avenue presents a fine sight, especially at night with the street full of cars, and is already causing much favorable comment. The town founders, finding plenty of land at their disposal when laying out the plan, worked wisely when they decided to give the new town plenty of room for the main street. The present-day Newberry is now thanking them.

EXTRA WARDENS ANNOUNCED

District Supervisor Louis Smith announces that extra law inforcement officers are now on duty and will serve to strengthen the regular force during the deer hunting season. The men have all been taken from the fire fighting force and are on for staggered periods so that the officers will always have extra men ready for service. R. J. Anderson and A. C. Barcley will work in Luce county out of the headquarters office. George Sampsel will work out of McMillan, Joe Thibedeau out of Seney and Allen Tweedy out of Grand Marais. In Manistique Ernest Edwards and Claud Wendland will serve Schoolcraft county with Earl Hider as special license sale clerk in the new sub-office in that city. William Cromwell work with Julius Thorson out of Munising. Two men will be on special patrol in the Cusino game reserve, Lester Peterson and Walter Niemi being delegated for this service and will make their headquarters at the Buck Hill fire tower cabin.

ARMISTICE DAY DINNER

The Newberry post American Legion will observe Armistice Day in this locality with a parade, dinner and dance to be held in the Community building. Leslie Goddard of L'Anse will be the dinner speaker at the program being planned by Commander Fred Keune and his committee comprised of George Williams, G. K. Fisher, L. E. Redmond and Elmer Johnson. A playlet, "America Remembers," will be presented in the high school on Monday forenoon at 10:30 by students of the school. The public is invited to attend. Following the dinner the local post will parade on Newberry avenue and will return to the Community building where a dance will complete the day's observance. Don Young and his Royal Commanders are furnishing the music for the event.

TENNIS COURTS PLANNED

Marquette—Building of tennis courts and a children's playground on the old Ohio street quarry site and erection of bleachers for spectators on Hurley field in South Marquette are recommended in the five-year program for city beautification and development of recreation facilities which has been submitted to the city commission by the advisory planning committee.

Concerning the Ohio street quarry property, the report says:

"The quarry site on East Ohio street between Spruce and Pine streets should be developed for sports. The recommended plan provides for two concrete tennis courts in the middle, with the cliff to the north serving as a natural backstop. Children's playground should be provided on either side of the courts.

So hot is the sun and so fatal the action of its actinic rays that the Ethiopians or anyone else living or sojourning there must keep out of the sun from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. or wear sun helmets or double hats to safeguard themselves against the effects of the sun, so there is little activity during this period of the day.

Michigan In Washington

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

Cheery outlook for the Michigan farmers: the average price of feed, seed and fertilizer will be less next year; the credit situation improved; demand for farm production greater; higher prices, if not offset by increased production; cash incomes, above production expenses, will be higher. So says the Bureau of Agriculture Economics, assisted by the extension service of the State Agricultural colleges, and the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

WPA—The Works Progress administration stepped out of the FERA (Federal Emergency Relief administration) with the clean-cut objective to substitute for a direct gift of bread, a job to earn the bread. The jobs might be work on a new community swimming pool, a new sanitation system, a new stretch of highway. Ninety per cent of the employees must come from the relief rolls. Pay checks every two weeks. Total WPA money, $1,140,000,000.

Gordon Van Eenenaam, state senator of Muskegon was unable to be present due to illness in the family. He was to have delivered the principal address of the evening.

Senator Flynn declared he was opposed to closing Potaganissing Bay to commercial fishing as long as his committe is convinced that 52 persons look to commercial fishing in that area for a livehood.

MAY MOTORIZE DEP'T

Ishpeming—Plans for motorizing the city's fire fighting equipment moved another step forward last night when the council authorized the mayor and three committees, finance, purchasing and fire, to take up the matter of buying a new pumper and hook and ladder truck.

Provision was made in the last budget for funds to purchase the equipment on the basis of three annual payments. It is the opinion of the majority of aldermen there should be no further delay in bringing the fire department up to date in view of the fact a new distribution system will be constructed here soon as a WPA project.

URGES DOUBLING FORCE

Sault Ste. Marie—Oscar G. Olander, police commissioner, proposed today that the state police force be doubled to make possible effective enforcement of traffic laws on the rural highways.

"The traffic fatality rate in cities, where there is enforcement of traffic regulations, is 18 per 100 000 population," he pointed out. "The rural rate is 27 per 100,000.

"The present state police force of 200 uniformed men is kept busy reporting accidents after they happen. There is little time for patrolling the 9,000 miles of trunk line highways and the 70 000 miles of country roads in search of traffic law violators."
